CRIPPLE CREEK (Colo.,) May 25. Seven men killed, with a strong probability that the number of dead will b increased when all is known, is the record of the first day of trouble here, although real fighting has not yet begun, as the deputies are awaiting reinforcements before beginning active operations.

At 10 o'clock this morning eleven mer started to work in the Strong mine, on Battle Mountain. Shortly afterward a large party of strikers blew up the shaft-house with powder, causing a loss of $25,000, and then dropped 100 pounds of giant powder down the shaft which was also exploded, killing all the inmates. Not more than three hundred yards from the Strong shaft, sixteen the Independence mine, were sur-rounded in their bunk-houses, and, after a long parley, agreed to surrender a brace of revolvers, the arms now being in the possession of the strikers. It is rumored that the strikers attacked the Anna Lee mine, overpowering the guards, after which they blev up the shaft-house; but the rumor has not been verified. When the deputies are finally massed, and the two forces come together, a most desperate battle will doubtless be fought. The situation at 6 o'clock this evening was one of most painful anxiety. No a few believed that the town will be smouldering mass by another sunset if the strikers be not restrained. At Vic miles away, where fully one thousand people reside, a reign of terror exists. Within half a mile of the corporation limits the town all day long fully two hundred union miners, armed with rifles, have paraded up and a detour into the village would be made, and people whom the miners thought to be objectionable were ordered to leave the place. The guards from Denver, upon arriving at Victor, went into camp on a neighboring hill. The strikers threw out a picket-line entirely surrounding them, but at a distance that guarantees them safety from the ties' rifles. It is said the strikers have planted under their breastworks on Bull Hill a quantity of dynamite, with the intention of blowing it up if it should be taken and occupied by the

One of the largest mine-owners in Colorado Springs is authority for statement that the mine-owners have planted a rifled cannon on a hill com manding the breastworks and that t would be used to dislodge the strikers from that position.

All sorts of rumors concerning the doings at the Strong mine are affoat.
One of them is to the effect that the workmen were not killed, having bee warned off by masked strikers.

All telephone communication has been broken, and it is feared the telegraph wires will go next. The depu-ties from Denver have withdrawn to a less exposed position, where they will await reinforcements. The strikers from their stronghold on Bull Hill can view the country for miles, and all passes are guarded by them.

Every stranger is intercepted and not allowed to proceed toward the town un-less a satisfactory explanation of his business is given. No one is permitted business is given. No one is permitted to get near enough to the seat of war to be in danger, and the streets of Crip-ple Creek and Victor, as well as the passes, are patrolled by miners carry-ing Winchesters and revolvers.

The capture and disarming of depu ties numbering eighteen was accom-plished by women, and ever since the occurrence two of the women have been holding high court, in a salor where the strikers heap congratula-

Deputies have been coming in quietly all day and it is thought an unexpected move is anticipated. It is stated on good authority that Gov. Waite is in sympathy with the strikers and that he will tomorrow issue a proclamation against the deputies and call out the militia to attack and disarm them. ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

CRIPPLE CREEK (Colo.,) May 25. A wagon load of powder was backed up against the shafthouse of the Strong mine by the strikers today and exploded. Several men were in the shaft-house a short time before, and whether they got out alive or not is not known

All telephone wires leading into the hills have been cut. It is feared the telegraph wires will go soon.

A train bearing 150 deputies reached Victor about 10 o'clock. About four hundred miners immediately surrounded the deputies and fighting bears. It is not known whether any were rounded the deputies and influing be-gan. It is not known whether any were killed. The deputies finally sought shel-ter in the Independence mine shaft-house, from which they were driven, and they are now in the hills east of the mine. Hundreds of miners armed with Winchesters are patrolling the The Annie Lee shafthouse, as well as that of the Strong, has been blown up. Part of the mob is now on the way to the Victor and Pharmacist mines, and, after blowing up the shafts there, intend to proceed to the Summit mine. At the summit of Bull Hill the miners have a barricade of logs plentifully supplied with explosives.

At 1 p.m. eighteen or twenty deputy sheriffs have surrendered to the strik ers, being told that of they surrendered their rifles and sidearms they would receive no personal injury. The deputies were then started toward this city strong guard.

The latest news from the scene of the struggle is that no shots were fired struggle is that no shots were fired. The deputies are camped south of Vic-tor, and declare they will go to the Victor mine or die in the attempt. It is reported that Superintendent McDonald of the Strong and Anna Lee mines was

READY FOR THEM. CONNELLSVILLE (Pa.,) May 25.— A cold rain last night dispersed several mobs and averted bloodshed. The first mob formed near Pennsville and marched to Moyer over the muddy roads, preceded by bands. When the strikers arrived within a quarter of a mile of the plant, they were met by a delegation, who told them that seventyve men were guarding the plants, and that two gatling guns were ready for action. The strikers turned toward Summit, but became exhausted, and after many had fallen by the wayside, the mob dispersed.

Another mob of 1000 marched to Jim Another mob of 1000 marched to Jim-town to make an attack at daybreak, but the wind and rain so benumbed them that they sought shelter. At Dunbar a large mob also assembled, but dispersed as soon as they learned that the company had secured an in-junction. The operators claim heavy gains at all plants today.

ELEVEN MEN KILLED COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo...) May 25.—Sam Strong, who has just arrived from Cripple Creek, corroborates the report that the shafthouse of the Strong mine was blown up, and says there were eleven men in the house, the majority of whom were killed. RETURNED BY STEALTH.

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.,) May 25,-The strikers, who were marched across the bridge yesterday afternoon by the Sheriff, were rowed over during the night in skiffs by sympathizers. The local labor organizations promise them support. There is strong probabilities of a general strike.

the manager and superintendent. The Governor declined to send troops.

Later.—The Governor, late this evening, issued the following general order:

"It is not the business of the soldiers to act as custodians or guards of private property. The law authorizes them simply to assist the civil authorities in preserving peace, quelling riots and excuting the laws. Where troops have been or may hereafter be ordered out and an owner of property feels thecessary to have, it guarded he must do so at his own expense, and in such a case the troops can only be used for the purpose of promptly quelling a disturbance of the peace or suppressing a riot, or in some other way enforcing the law."

Among things, Judge Dittenhoefer stated that for Mr. Edwards to disclose the names of his informants would be to degrade

The committee overruled Judge Dit-enhoefer's objections and again called Edwards in and repeated its demands that he give the names requested in the first instance and received the final decision not to comply with the demand. without debate tomorrow morning. Senator Turpie objected.

Senator Frye then asked that the resolutions be considered again tomorrow. Senator George objected. Then followed a clash between Senators Hoar and Harris.

Senator Hoar said that it was the universal sentiment of the country that there should be no interference by 'he United States with the domestic affairs of Hawaii. Senator Morgan, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, fully indorsed what Senator Hoar said, and the latter was proceeding to say that he hoped that Senator Morgan's indorsement of his statement would echo around the world, when Senator Harris declared the tariff bill was before the Senate, and further discussion was out of order.

Senator Hoar protested vigorously against the "angry and discourteous lectures," when Senator Harris retorted that he owed less courtesy to the Senator from Massachusetts than any other.

HOUSE.—At the end of the morning hour in the House today, the House went into committee of the whole for the consideration of private bills. Mr. Springer gave notice that the special.

first thing tomorrow he would call up the Brawley bill for the repeal of the State-bank tax.

The entire afternoon was consumed in the discussion of an omnibus resolution from the Committee on War Claims, grouping together thirty-seven claims for cotton, etc., aggregating $1,040,000. Half the time was taken up in a discussion on a point of order against the grouping of so many bills in one resolution. The only business done during the day was the passage of a bill for the relief of Thomas B. Reed, and the success of this bill seemed to be due in no small degree to the name.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The Demo been conferring among themselves to-day, with the view of finding means of hastening the final disposition of the bill, and, one time during the day, debill, and, one time during the day, decided to ask the Republicans tomorrow to agree to a date when the vote should be taken, but after conference with the Republican leaders, they decided to postpone the request for the present. They had expected to ask that the date for the vote be fixed for the 8th or 9th of June, and thought they would be able to secure an agreement for about the 15th of June. The conference with the Republicans convinced them that if the request should be made now it would be antagonized and probably would result in loss of time, where, if it should be made later, it might be acceded to.

They have not decided whether they will ask for an extension of hours into the evening, but say the Republicans will decide that afterward by their course in the debate. If fairly rapid progress is made for the next few days, the evening sessions will not be attempted, but otherwise the Senate in all probability will be asked to sit until 10 o'clock every night until the bill shall be acted upon and sent to Congress. cided to ask the Republicans to Rain Accompanied by Thunder and Light-ning Does Much Damage. Issociated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—The storm today extended over California from Stockton north. At many places the rain was accompanied by thunder and lightning. At Fresno there was no rain, but a severe sandstorm prevailed. Reports to the Associated Press from numerous places in California indicate that some fruit and hay were damaged by the rain, but it was a benefit to other crops, which may offset the injury. At Tracy the rain fell in torrents for fifteen minutes, and a valuable horse on M. Brynes's ranch was killed by lightning. At Ukiah the rain will benefit hops, fruit and late's crops. At Los Gatos half an inch of rain fell, injuring cherries. A sudden rise in the creek indicated a cloud-burst above Wright's station. San Rafael reports that not enough rain fell in Marin county to do any harm. At Sonoma heavy showers fell all day; and cherries and hay will be damaged. At Napa over half an inch fell, injuring cherries and cut hay, other crops will be benefited. At Gilroy cherries, ripened barley and cut hay were injured. THE TRAMPS FIRED. Brakeman Stukesbury Fatally Wounded Near

Associated Press Leased-wire Service. OMAHA, May 25.-When the first se tion of train No. 6 on the Burlington, leaving Council Bluffs at 8:40 o'clock this evening, had reached a point about two miles east of the city, Brakeman Stukesbury noticed five tramps on a flat car. He ordered them off, when one of the men fired two shots at him,

When Stukesbury was able to tell the facts, he said all the tramps jumped from the train after the shooting. Twomen, giving the names of Moore and Lynch, were found near where Stukesbury lay and were arrested. The doctors say Stukesbury's throat wound will be fatal.

SARATOGA, May 25.—The proceed ings in the Smith case, which is on appeal against the heresy proceedings at Cincinnati, today reached the last order and the members began to give ex-pression to their individual views as the roll was called. Forty-five three-minute speeches were delivered and the trend of opinion was shown by the fact that only eleven of them were in favor of sustaining the appeal, A feature of the proceedings consisted in the abrupt closing of many of these efforts, oc-casioned by the fall of the moderator's ecution committee, who was introduced as "a plain man and a farmer."

Prof. Smith replied in the hour given him, and said it was admitted that the address in which the original charges were based contained statements which are not in accord with the doctrine as stated by the prosecution. Prof. Smith went on to say, however, that he had not denied anything about the original autograph, because he had no evidence on the subject. The Bible as we have it, is evidenced to us by the restlineny of the Holy Sprifting But in its present shape it contains admitted errors, which, however, do not discredit the books as given by the inspiration of God. The matter of inerrancy of scripture was next discussed, and the opposite inference drawn from the fact that the ordinances of early scriptures were abrogated by the new doctrine and quite unknown to the reformers. It was added that if the se scriptures were abrogated by the new doctrine and quite unknown to the ireformers. It was added that if the assembly will restore the accused to the ministry till the originals of the scripture were discovered he will spend the rest of his days without fear.

When Prof. Smith closed his argument the programme announced yesterday, as agreed upon by the Synod of Ohio, was begun, Dr. Townsend of Cleveland opened with seven minutes to this credit.

Townsend's argument consisted of a presentation of the fundamental question, whether inerrancy is unequiv-ocally taught in the Bible and confes-sion of faith.

scally target in the Bible and contession of faith.

Rev. Dr. George L. Kolbe of Bellefontaine followed. He expressed the hope the the assembly may have grace enough to enable them to restore the gentleman to the ministry.

Argument was based upon the contention that neither Bible nor the confession of faith contains a definite theory of inspiration, and upon the assertion that the accused holds strongly to the doctrine of scriptures as formulated in the doctrinal standard of the church.

The most effective speech was that of Elder McDougal of Cincinnati, whose main contention was that to support the appeal was to approve the teachings the appeal was to approve the teachings of Dr. Briggs, and he exclaimed: "Don't reverse the Briggs verdict!"

He called attention to the difference between judge and juryman and likened the members of the assembly to judges. Expressions of opinion by them did not indicate prejudice. He insisted the present was not a personal question.

them did not indicate prejudice. He insisted the present was not a personal question.

Prof. Smith was declared to hold that the decisions of the Portland and Washington assemblies were wrong and should be reversed. He was declared to have gone further than Dr. Briggs in his views, holding not only that errors may have been contained in the original scriptures, but even specifying them. He was also accused of throwing discredit not only upon the books of the Bible, but also upon the author of the same, who, it is claimed by the confession, is God himself. He closed by saying that if Prof. Smith will retract his errors, the Presbytery of Cincinnati will make haste to receive him again in full connection. One of the representatives of the synod of Ohio, Dr. Ludlow of Cleveland, besought the assembly to remember the church has always contained two parties and that its present action may lead to division in the denomination.

The refusal of the assembly to sit tonight was due to weariness, but it will give ample opportunity for the preparations of a large number of brief speeches, which promise to prolong the session by several hours.

Late telegrams from Illinois Central trainmen say 2000 men are en route to Pana from southern districts; also that 1000 are coming here from northern districts. All day citizens were being sworn in and all the working miners who desired were made deputies and armed with those citizens who were sworn in at last night's mass-meeting and at the monster meeting held at the City Hall this evening. There is now a total of about 1500 deputies armed and on duty. Those companies are drilling this evening, and are in readiness to be in line at a moment's notice. Acres of Lumber Mills Go Up in Smoke.

The Worst Occurrence for Many Years at Westminster, B. C .- The Loss Estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000.

By Telegraph to The Times. SAN FRANCISCO, May 25 .- (Special Dispatch.) A dispatch from New West-minster, B. C., says that the biggest fire in Westminster since the great clean-out in 1891 took place this evening in the Royal City Planing-mills, the largest labor-employers on the main-land of British Columbia. The whole premises cover twenty acres, on which ere buildings and stock to the value were buildings and stock to the value of $500,000. At 7:20 o'clock fire suddenly burst from the shingle-mill situated in the very center of the works, and before the fire brigade could be summoned the building was a mass of flames. The firemen responded promptly, but before they arrived the flames had spread to the box factory, and dry-kiln, and, ten minutes later, the machine shop, shingle warehouse, planing-mill and great rows of lumber piles were in a blaze. Streams of water were turned in from all sides on land and the fire steamer Surrey fought the flames from the river. The firemen made a stubborn fight and held the conflagration within river. The firemen made a stubborn fight and held the confiagration within a space covering five acres. The weather has been excessively hot for several days and everything was dry and burned with a roar that could be heardl a mile away. By 8:40 o'clock other buildings were out of danger. At 10 p.m. the firemen were still working hard, but all danger was past. John Hendry, president of the company, says the loss cannot be accurately estimated yet, but it will amount to from $50,000 to $100,000. The machinery destroyed was nearly new, and of the most modern description. The loss is covered by two-thirds insurance. The burned works will be rebuilt at once. The saw-mill, sash and door factories, principal warehouses, offices and workmen's cottages were saved, as was also a larger part of the stock in the yards.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, May 25.—At the Chi-W. Finley, general traffic manager of the Great Northern, was appointed to confer with the Panama Railroad and Pacific Mail Steamship Company officonfer with the Panama Hailroad and Pacific Mail Steamship Company officials to find out whether an early settlement of their difficulties will be possible, and, if not, to report what terms the Panama Railroad Company, with its independent line of steamers out of both New York and San Francisco, was willing to make with the transcontinental lines. Finley had a conference today with the Panama officials, and after he had obtained a statement from them he called upon C. P. Huntington.

The Panama officials refused to disclose the result of the conference, but it is understood they assured Mr. Finley that Mr. Huntington has had their ultimatum for several weeks, and that if the Pacific Mail Company accepted it, the transcontinental-rate situation could be adjusted any moment on just as satisfactory a basis as it was when the subsidiary existed.

It is expected that if the Pacific Mail Company does not come to an early expendent with the Panama Raile

Some very interesting developments in the transcontinental and isthmus situation are promised.

TRYING TO REVOLUTIONIZE FARM

A shrewd attempt to steal a march on nature is now being made by agri-culturists, which, if successful, may bring about a revolution in farming practice. The point which there is just now much striving to elucidate, is whether the excrescences which naturally form on the roots of clover, peas and other luguminous plants, and which whether the excrescences which naturally form on the roots of clover, peas and other luguminous plants, and which enable such plants to decompose the atmosphere and use its nitrogen, may not be also made to grow on corn, oats and other plants of the grass family. If this can be accomplished it will be possible to make corn, oats and wheat renovating crops, as clover and peas now are. The process of experimenting is to inoculate corn and oat roots with the bacteria taken from the warts on the roots of clover. This is a ticklish process, as the bacteria from clover have most conservative habits, and die outright if they are transferred suddenly to an entirely different kind of plant. So they are cultivated, at first, in a culture media, only a portion of which consists of watery solutions of clover. So far the experiments have entirely failed on oats, but they have been partly successful on the roots of Indian corn. The corn plants whose roots were inoculated were slightly more thrifty and had more fine roots. It was bacteria from a corn extract that was tried upon oats; it is possible that if an oat extract had been used, a better result might have followed. If individual plants of corn or other grains can in this way be given the power of appropriating atmospheric nitrogen, and if the necessary modification in their nature can be continued in plants grown from their seed, one of the most important discoveries of modern times will have been reached. It will mean a thorough revolution in farming. Farmers will no longer need nitrogenous manures, or even clover as a nitrogen-catching crop, but will be obliged only to furnish the mineral elements of crops, leaving science and nature to supply all else required.

AN INTERESTING MOVE IN SHIP-BUILDING.

Ship-builders are eagerly watching the outcome of a novel step which has turn thory watching the outcome of a novel step which has turn thory watching the content of the outcome of a novel step which has Prof. Houston proposes that elementary forestry be made a study in our lower schools, as such study is necessary to properly instruct the public through the children as to the duties it owes the State, to insist on the enactment of penal laws for fitly protecting the forests in certain sections of the coun-try. He does not advocate the studysitating the use of a text-book, unless such book be merely as a reader; but rather that forestry should be made a branch of elementary science (say of geography,) or of elementary natural science in general. He would teach, as far as possible, the general princigeography,) or of elementary natural science in general. He would teach, as far as possible, the general principles underlying the growth of trees and vegetation, the laws regulating the distribution of the sun's heat; the peculiarities attending the evaporation and precipitation of moisture; the general laws of drainage, etc. He would then simply endeavor to show how the presence or absence of a forest covering in any section of country must necessarily be influential in modifying the distribution not only of the surface drainage, but also of the sun's heat in that section, always carefully avoiding debatable questions, and tempering the instruction to the age and intelligence of the children to whom it was given. A most desfrable, step in this direction has already been taken in the order of the school authorities that appropriate exercises shall be conducted in all the public schools on arbor or tree-planting is naturally very attractive to intelligent children. So, too, is the growth of the tree, or, indeed, of any plant. Ip the first place, there is the germ or seed from which the plant after birth is nourished and cared for; the soil. Then comes the sunshine and the heatshine that awaken the germ from its long sleep; then comes the norishment or food; first the part surrounding the germ and lying inside the seed, and next the greater part lying outside the seed, which the plant obtains from the soil, or from the atmosphere. Such lessons can be made to the intelligent child more interesting than fairy stories. American students of forestry will be able to derive some most valuable hints from the current discussion of the movement now strongly in favor for the afforestation of the British Isles. England imports every year besides 15,000,000 of teak, mahogany, and other tropical woods, $60,000,000 worth of oak, ash and conference timber to render these latter imports unnecessary. It is even probable that a smaller area would suffice, were the productiveness of the existing wood-

BULDING.

Ship-builders are eagerly watching the outcome of a novel step which has just taken practical shape in a Tyne ship-building yard. The owners of the yard have begun to inclose berths for ship-building purposes, in order that the construction of vessels may not be retarded by either wind or weather. Sheds over ship-building berths, though uncommon, are not a novelty, having been tried both in this country and in England, but the Tyne firm is erecting much larger and more complete structures than any hitherto attempted anywhere, and are introducing special matures than any hitherto attempted anywhere, and are introducing special machines and tools for reducing hand labor, and handling heavy plates, their object being more perfect work than is now possible with the appliances in use, as well as saving in cost, and in time occupied in building. There will be two cranes for each berth, each traveling the full length of the sheds. The firm proposes to cover in both the roof and sides for protection from the weather, so as to be able to work continuously, or with double shifts when necessary, and machine tools will be used almost entirely and hand labor dispensed with to the greatest possible extent. Oil furnaces will be extent. Oil furnaces will be used for rivet-heating, so as to do away with most of the dirt and smoke inseparably connected with the present inconvenient hand forges for heating

ORANGES AND DIPSOMANIACS. The new virtue claimed for the orange—that if consumed systematically it will wean the veriest sot from all alcoholic potations—is being widely discussed in England. Six oranges per diem form the rations, to be consumed at intervals of two or three hours. In answer to the inquiry propounded in a daily newspaper: "What must a man do if he can't get oranges?" a correspondent says: "Let him take apples. Apples, even more than oranges, have the power to diminish, and, if eaten systematically, to entirely eradicate the craving for stimulants. This is owing to the malic acid, which completely renovates and purifies the whole system. If fruit were freely taken as a part of the daily meals, we should hear far less of the troubles and allments now so common. It may not be ments now so common. It may not be generally known that oranges are also specially valuable in lung complaints, the acid citrate of potash preventing the development of pneumonia."

CONTROLLING THE TONGUE, It is a lamentable fact that the matrue that if they only knew how they could enunciate well and easily. could enunciate well and easily. A well-known writer gives some valuable information on this subject in an article in a leading daily paper. He shows that so common is this misuse of the vocal organ that it frequently leads to chronic sore throat. The tongue to chronic sore throat. The tongue is often accountable for the trouble, Many people have a habit, when talking, of pushing the tongue so far back against the delicate membranes that line the throat that irritation more or

Many people nave a habit, when talking, of pushing the tongue so far back against the delicate membranes that line the throat that fritation more or less painful is caused, and, if it continues any length of time, ulcers will form, and so will a doctor's bill. People who are thus afflicted, and for the matter of that people who are not, should at once set about learning how to control their tongue, i. e., how to correct the false and pernfelous habits that it may have drifted into. The organ should be depressed into a hollow—before a looking-glass—at a point three-quarters of an inch back of where the tip of it comes when in a natural position in the mouth, and at the same time singing very light head tones. The exercise requires some patience at first, but the habit of keeping the tongue down is soon acquired. Many a hard-working vocal student is a sufferer through not knowing this. He may have been working unsuccessfully for weeks in his attempt to produce better tone, simply because his tongue would not let him. In speaking or singing it should not be allowed to hoop up and fill the mouth, thus interfering with the free passage of the tones of the woice from the throat to the front of the mouth, where they should strike and then escape clear as a bell. This hooping up of the tongue in the mouth is the cause of much of the indistinct and slovenly utterance, which is gall and wormwood to the cultivated ear. In many people the line from the point of the chin to the feck is in the form of a right angle. In a shapely throat this line forms a curve just as a canary's does when he is carolling. The process of turning this angle into a curve is well worth undertaking, as it involves a fine development of the throat, and excellent practice in tongue control. Stand before a mirror, so that you may watch the throat swell out; now thrust your tongue out as far as it will go, then draw it back quickly and forcibly, at the same time bringing it downward in the mouth as far as you can. Place your thumb and forefinger again

Young Davis was the favorite nephew of A. J. Davis, Sr., whose wealth was estimated at $5,000,000. About a month before his death, the elder Davis handed his nephew certificates representing 950 shares of First National Bank stock, valued at $1,250,000, with a statement that he was going away and might die before returning, and in case of death, his nephew should keep the stock. The gtock was not signed to young Davis, and no record of transfer appeared on the books of the bank. Immediately after the death of the elder Davis, the other heirs brought suit to determine the legality of the transaction.

SOUTH RIVERSIDE, May 24.—(Special Correspondence.) South Riverside is preparing to incorporate as a city of the sixth class, and in order to do so has been endeavoring to secure a suitable name. "South Riverside," "Circle City" and "Queen City" have each objectionable features, so new names were asked for. Some twenty-five were presented at a meeting of the citizens beld for the purpose of chosing the name, and after several ballots "Reyns" was chosen, and will probably stand as the new city's name, though there is some talk of having another meeting to reconsider.

Caustic Wit of an English Judge.

(Westminister Gazette:) Lord
Boven, besides being a great Judge, was a great wit. How happy, for instance, was the amendment he proposed when the Judges were drawing up an address to the Queen on the occasion of her Majestv's jubilee:
"Conscious as we are of our shortcomings." said the address; "conscious comings," said the address; "conscious as we are of one another's shortcomings," suggested Lord Bowen.

Not long ago Lord Bowen was called upon, it is said, to sit in the Admiralty Court. Upon taking his seat he asked indulgence on account of his inexperience in admiralty business, "And may there be no moaning at the bar," he added, "when I put out to se." Sometimes his wit was very incisive—as for instance, when he reinclsive—as, for instance, when he remarked, "Truth will out, even in an affidavit."

Croup is Contagious.

Bacteriologist Herman M. Biggs of New York has made a report to the Board of Health of the results of his investigation into 28s cases of so-called "membranous croup." He says that his observations justify the conclusion that the disease is nothing more or less than laryngial diphtheria. He recommends croup should be put on the list of contagious diseases, concerning which reports from physicians to the health board are required. It is said that the recommendation will be adopted.

THE TIMES-MIRROR CO. THE RISE AND FALL OF NATIONS.

It is doubtful whether the experimen M a republic for the Hawaiian Islands will prove very successful. The population is too mixed, and there is too large a proportion of uneducated peo ple who are incapable of appreciating the responsibilities which go together with the advantages of a free form of government.

is too common a mistake amon kindergarten reformers to believe, or to affect to believe, that a mere change in the name of a government changes its character. This is about as reasonable as to suppose that a change in a man's clothes will change his nature To make a true republic you mus who whether by instinct, or heredity, or training, possess those sterling traits of character which go to make up the character of a citizen of a free coun try. Those traits are found among the ple of many countries which no under the rankest kind of des potism. They are lacking among the people of other countries, which, as w are informed by the guide-books and gazetteers, are republics, having a president and (nominal) representative legislatures. We see the lesson in many ways: We witness from time to time uprisings against a despotic form of government by sturdy men, who after centuries of oppression and suppression, refuse to bend their necks eath the yoke. We see, again, in countries enslaved people, who submit with indifference to the lash of dictator, who, under the name of a president, is really a greater despot than the Czar of Russia. All these, and many other instances which might be cited from ancient and niddle-age history, should convince us that it takes something more than a name to make a republic. As a chain so a country is only as strong as the of citizens which make up the population of that country. Nor if anywhere, should a nomination, an election, or an appointment come unhould Americans look upon this lesson while interesting, not particularly concern them. On the lesson is of particular concern to the United States at the present time. Because we are, as nation, so great, and powerful, and re sourceful we must not commit the en ror of supposing that it is impossible for us to fall. The history of the world teaches us that all nations eventually have had their fall, even as they ha their rise. It seems to be a reflex of the law of nature that this should be so. Out in the fathomless abysses of illimitable space worlds are created from nebulous matter, are brought to perfection, then die out and become fruit goes through the various stages of bud, blossom, immaturity eness, until it decays and falls from the tree: Man himself has not been able to evade the operations of this great law. Death may be postponed, but it comes at last to the rich and poor, the just and the unjust, alike. same, with very few exceptions has been true of most nations up to the a longer, others for a shorter, period. Most of them have at length disap-peared. The laws which govern the growth and decline of nations are no nore uncertain than those which shape the evolution of matter, or the progrese of animal life in the universe as the life-time of a man is lengthened or shortened in proportion to the renature, so the lifetime of a nation is lengthened or shortened in accordance with the character of the citizens who make up the component parts of that nation. "Ill fares the State, to hastening ills a prey," where the fact begenerally admitted that wealth is a key which will open every door, where the political machinery is left and where the masses of the citizens and where the masses of the citizens bettle down to the idea that their whole duty to their country is fulfilled when they go to the polls and deposit t once in every few years. ### ALTGELD AND ANARCHY.

To say the least, it is an awkward osition in which Altgeld, the anarchistic Governor of Illinois, now finds him self. It is analogous to the attitude has been forced by its whilom friends and supporters of the Industrial Army. The situation in Illinois would be lulicrous were it not for the fact that t borders on the tragic.

As is well known, Gov. Altgeld, if ot precisely an Anarchist, is in close sympathy with anarchism. He it was the pardoned the Anarchists, Fielden, Schwab and Neebe, the former two of whom were under sentence of life imprisonment for complicity in the Haymarket massacre. To his sympathy with anarchism 'Altgeld owes his election, and evidence is not lacking that he was bound by ante-election pledges to pardon the Anarchists. His whole administration has been a disgrace to the great State of Illinois, a menace to the peace of its citizens and an open invitation for Anarchists to work out their lawless conspiracies.

Now this anarchistic Governor is onfronted by a dilemma. His friends, the Anarchists, have entered upon a La Salle, Centralia and other points. They have raised the inspiriting cry of "Vive l'Anarchie," evidently relying upon the sympathy, and, if necessary, the assistance of their beloved Governor. The latter must either go back on his friends, or call out the militia to preserve order. He is in a position, so to speak, where he must either fish or cut balt. To support the law offend his best friends. To refuse is to invite chaos and precipitate

Gov. Altgeld's position is truly a one for so great and good a man to be placed in. He is entitled to and no doubt has, the ardent sympathy of every Anarchist in the country. It is a little surprising, under the cumstances, that his friends, the rioters, have not called upon him ere this for troops to aid them in destroying property and killing sheriffs, deputies and men who are engaged in the heinous crime of earning an honest living by honest toil. But the rioters may yet make this demand, as the situation affairs becomes more tense, and, when they do, the good Governor's predicament will become even more critical than it is now.

Illinois is paying dearly for the luxary of an anarchistic Governor, but those who dance must pay the piper, and sometimes the piper's charges are high. There is no doubt that the present chaotic state of affairs in that commonwealth is due, in a very large legree, to the known sympathy of the executive with the monstrous doctrines which formed the incentive of the Haymarket murders. The people of Illi-nois will, indeed, be fortunate if no more tragic results grow out of the present situation than the killing of a lew men and the wounding of a few These results are tragic enough, in all conscience, but events may follow before the trouble is ended, which will make them appear as summer shower to a Kansas tornado.

NO OFFICE-HOLDERS IN CONVENTIONS.

Full as it is of impracticable absurdities, the Populist platform in that clause of it which declares against the partici-pation of office-holders in nominating conventions, contains a wholesome and timely protest against a great evil s crept into our political methods. It is worthy of adoption by all parties, and the party scrupulously adheres to this principle will have done much to deserve the public confidence.

The evils which flow from the par ticipation of office-holders in conventions are self-evident. The Populls statesmen have made no new discovery in this matter, but they are entitled to due credit for the vigor and apparent sincerity with which they have placed themselves on record in their platform as opposed to this mischievous prac-

The public conscience has been dulled and needs awakening.

In his first letter of acceptance, Grover Cleveland indirectly pronounced against this evil when he declared in favor of a single term for the Presi dency, and pointed out with more or less particularity the evils and abuses which are sure to follow the efforts of a "horde of trained officials" to perpetuate their tenure of office by using their positions as a vantage ground from which to secure the re nomination and re-election of their chief. But, although Mr. Cleveland's phrases were smooth and high-sounding, they were robbed of their force by his subsequent acceptance of the nomination term-a nomination se cured in large part through the in-trigues of the horde of office-holders who surrounded him and assumed to act for his party.

When Mr. Cleveland succumbed to "the allurements of power," which he so vehemently deprecated, and allowed his office-holders to renominate him, he not only lost a great opportunity to establish himself in the confidence as a man of deep and sincere convictions, but he set an exan ple. which has had much to do with the disgraceful manipulation of politi-cal conventions by interested persons since that time. So, too, in the Republican National Convention of 1892, a most disgraceful spectacle was presented. That convention was made up largely of Federal office-holders, and of those who expected to be such. No less than 153 feeders at the public crib were noisy delegates in that convention. of them were from States which had no Republican electoral power what-ever—no ability to "lend a hand" in the election of a Republican President; yet these delegates were suffered, under a vicious system, to exercise a dan-gerous influence in turning the scale at a critical moment. Mr. Harrison's renomination could never have be office-holders, who held the balance of power and dictated the action of the convention. With the disastrous results which followed we are unhappily too familiar. The influence of the office-holding class was more conspi ous in the Minneapolis convention than in any preceding national convention, and this fact was used with telling effect by our pelitical opponents in the cam-paign which followed.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that the officious intermeddling of the office-holding class was responsible for the defeat of the Republican party in Thus was a great party thrown in the house of its friends, and great nation brought to the verge of social distraction and industrial ruin.

Although the consequences of official interference in local and State convenions may not be so far-reaching as in national affairs, the principle is the As interested parties are defrom serving on juries, so office-holders be disqualified from serving as delegates, or in any participating in the work of political conventions. The presence members of a dozen deputies of the Sheriff in the last meeting of the Re-publican County Central Committee was a gross impropriety and an unpar-donable offense to Republicans generally, as well as to other candidates, who had a right to a When a man accepts an office, it should be with a distinct understanding of and acquiescence in this disquaiffica-tion during his term of office. In this direction lies the path of safety, of pure politics, of a free choice of candites by the people.

There is a growing feeling of disgust at the manner in which conventions are too often manipulated by and in the interests of persons already in office. The sooner this sentiment becomes a force militant, of sufficient power to drive the office-holder from al political conventions, the better will it be for all parties and for the people The office-holder has rights in proper place, but among these rights

the government of which he is the paid GOOD COUNTY ROADS.

A number of petitions are in circula tion in the city and country districts, asking the Supervisors to appoint a board of competent engineers to devise plan for the construction of main highways throughout the county, and as soon as this board shall return a satisfactory scheme that a special ele tion shall be called and the people be allowed to vote on the question suing bonds to the amount of $750,000 for the construction of roads in ac cordance with the plan. These petitions are being generally signed, will be presented to the Board of Supervisors early in June.

A question has arisen as to the power of the people to vote bonds for such a purpose, and it has been asserted that bonds so issued would not find market. With the comparatively small indebtedness of the county and its large assessment roll there can be no ques tion as to the demand for its bonds a per cent., provided all the require ments of the law are complied with in

It happens that Los Angeles county is of the first steps taken by Sacramento county, when it began an agitation for good roads was to consult the Attorney-General and raise the question of the power of the county to issue bonds for road purposes. The Attorney-General's opinion, as quoted by the San Francisco Examiner, was direct and unequivocal to the effect that the county had the right to issue bonds on county, when two-thirds of the voters so authorized, and that the so raised cannot be used for any other than the specified purpose, and that purpose may be for building trunk roads at the general cost of the county.

The fact that Kern county has sold its bonds, and that the work on the roads is well under way, ought to show that there can be no doubt as to the power of a county to bond itself for such a purpose.

It is evident, from some of the objections offered to the issuing of bonds for the construction of roads, that some ommunities in this section are in nee of education on the general subject of good roads.

WHERE OUR SAPETY LIES. In the social disturbances, which are agitating the country, the tendency of those who are in favor of strikes, and who wish to sustain them, is altogether too strongly in the direction of brute force. In the mining regions, among the strikers, are found those who do no hesitate to resort to outrage and varimake the strike successful. The foreign element among the strikers is especially noisy, turbulent and aggres sive, bringing everywhere un-American methods to bear upon the ends which they desire to attain. It is, even to the most unobserving, plain to see that we are slowly drifting away from he ideas and principles which controlled the founders of this government. and which constitute the basis of its prosperity.

The foreign element which has so largely helped to swell our industrial orces, has done and is doing, much to create the disturbances from which the country is suffering. Among the miners in Pennsylvania are large num-bers who are unable to speak a word of English, but they are doing their share toward swelling the tumult and resisting the laws. Many among them are Socialists and anostles of anarchy. and are yet too ignorant to understand the principles upon which they are founded. Brute force is the only arguwhich they comprehend or to which they appeal, the only weapon which they know how to make use of. They are not aiding the cause of labor, which can never be strengthened by moblaw or violence. If a revolution comes, which will effect permanent good, a change which, will radically better the condition of society, it will not come through any of the means at present employed by these riotous aliens or their thoughtless sympathizers; not by means of Industrial ar-mies, so-called, marching upon the nation's capital, but through proper and legitimate legal methods, inaugurated and sustained by the thoughtful, intelligent and law-abiding citizens of the republic. And in our firm adhesion to law is our only safety.

The Democratic Senators rejected the Aldrich amendment to the tariff bill, fixing the duty on tin plate at 1½ cents per pound; for did not the Chicago platform declare that protection is robbery? and has not the duty on tin plate, in particular, been scored by the free-trade oracles as one of the tainly. In rejecting the 1½ per cent. duty the Democratic Senators acted in conformity to the demands of their their consistency, a few minutes later in voting for the Jones amendment which fixes the duty on tin plate at 1 1-15 cents per pound. They could rever—no, never!—consent to have the people robbed to the tune of 1 15-30 cents per pound on the tin plate im-ports; but they were quite willing to have the people robbed to the tune of cents per pound. value of a Democratic Senator's conscience may now be regarded as established. It is 13-30 of one cent.

Men of all parties are rapidly con ng to a recognition of the fact tha all foreign immigration should be greatly restricted, if not stopped alto gether, for a term of years. The same arguments which apply in the case of immigration apply in a modified degree, but with equal or greater force, in favor of the restriction, li not actual prohibition, of certain kinds of foreign-made merchandise, which mes into direct and ruinous competiion with domestic products. In cases the free entry of foreign wares is more hurtful to American industry than the free entry of foreign work-men. The immigrant who comes to these shores must have food and assist American industries by purhasing their products. The foreign goods which come here neither wear, nor buy anything.

Edwin Booth was the greatest trage lian that ever lived. This illustrious American is no more, but there is part 3 of "The Marie Burroughs Ar Porfolio of Stage Celebrities," contains a fine portrait of Booth as Hamlet. Lawrence Barrett, so inti-mately associated with Booth, is another great tragedian whose portrait appears in this part, and there are eighteen other fine portraits, making twenty in all. This is a beautiful and artistic series of photographs of all The Times is offering at 10 cents per three coupons. Three part low ready.

The American citizens of the State of New York have a pressing duty to perof the Legislature which prohibited the display of foreign flags on any public building. The people—the Americans of the State should get up a monste protest against the Governor's veto and forward it to him without delay. But perhaps, after all, such action would be of no avail, for the foreign element of New York city might get up a counter protest, and the latter might be found to contain more names than the other

History-making is going on pretty rapidly these days, but it is hard to tell which are the vital forces at work which will leave the largest impress upon the future. But it is very plair to be perceived that there are socia elements, which need to be suppress which are wholly antagonistic to the spirit of American institutions. the next few years we must choose our leaders wisely, or the undesirable element will get the upper hand, and then woe to human freedom. The attendance upon the Midwinter

Fair keeps up pretty well, and there s no question but that the director will come out ahead financially, in the end. It has proved a magnificent enterprise—one that will do much for the future of the State. There is one big hole in the Sacra mento platform, through which tumble. If this hole had been stopped by a good, sound tariff plank, loint Exercises by Stanton Post and Relief platform would have been much safer Grover Cleveland has returned from

Mrs. Zinn was aged 52 years at the time of her death. She was a woman of too much shrinking modesty to attract much immediate attention; but in earnest devotion and constant labors for the objects of the Relief Corps she had no superior.

Both organizations completed arrangements for the memorial service to be held Sunday.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

PASADENA, May 24.—(To the Editor of The Times.) The report that the Senate has changed the rate of the Wilson bill on scrap and pig iron to 34 per ton, while probably attracting very little attention among the readers of The Times, is really one of vital importance to the people of Los Angeles and the whole Pacific Coast.

I have before me a letter from one of the largest iron manufacturing concerns in Los Angeles, in which the head of the firm declares that, with free pig and scrap iron and coal, Los Angeles could and would manufacture all the heavy castings and structural iron used here and now brought across the continent from Pennsylvania.

There are hundreds of ships which come to our coast every year to load with barley, wheat, mustard, honey and the other products of California, and which bring no freight. They come in ballast of sand or water. They could load cheaper with iron or coad, so far as the work of lading is concerned, and it would cost no more to bring a ton of coal or iron from England, Germany or Nova Scotla than it does to bring a ton of sand or water, and with the result that it would open up a field of manufacturing enterprise and prosperity such as the State of California has never seen and never will see until we are allowed to avail ourselves of the opportunities and advantages which commerce would be glad to bring to our doors.

In the years that are to come, and even now, iron is taking the place of wood in the construction of large buildings. It is stronger, more indestructible and capable of more beautiful design.

Now the tariff tax but this structural iron is $18a ton, and for whose benefit?

structible and capable of more beautiful design.

Now the tariff tax on this structural iron is $18 a ton, and for whose benefit? Wholly for the benefit of a few iron monopolies like that of the Edgar Thompson works of Pennsylvania, which for years have been importing a horde of ignorant Poles, Hungarlans and the like to compete with the American citizen in the labor market, and be a constant menace and danger to the law and order, and peace of the community.

Andrew Carnegie gives hundreds of thousands of dollars for libraries and churches, but whose money is it? The money of the people of California, of Los Angeles, who are compelled to pay a tribute to him and such monopolies as his, with every iron front that is erected and every mile of railroad

If we could but look at these things for once as business propositions, aside from all political prejudice and partisanship! What we need and more tariff tax on fruit, on tions, aside from all political prejudice and partisanship! What we need is not more tariff tax on fruit, on raisins, prunes and the like. We want a market. We want an opportunity to avail ourselves of the advantages which are offered at our very doors, but from which we blindly turn away. Give Los Angeles free coal, free iron and free lumber, just what every one of the statesmen-like founders of the Republican party advocated, and the smoke of her factory chimneys and the fires of her furnaces will be a pillar and cloud to lead us into as yet undrearmed prosperity, and make this, indeed, a promised land.

Notes.

The Park Commission met at the City Hall yesterday, but the Board of Public Works meeting did not materialze. There was a good deal of gossip about what the Police Commission had about what the Police Commission had in mind at its secret meeting held the day before, and there was more or less talk about the finding of the reported wreck of a part of the outfall sewer to be the result of a very small leak. At the Courthouse interest centered in grand jury matters.

PARK COMMISSIONERS.

Matters. The Park Commission held a short meeting yesterday morning, which was attended by Commissioners Hubbell, Cross, Mesmer and Mayor Rowan. A communication from J. H. Braly, asking permission to temporarily use a portion of the street on the west side of his property in St. James's Park for a tennis-court, was referred to Mr. Teed, the Councilman of that ward.

A communication was presented from Peter Keenan, stating, in reference to the building of the boathouse at West-lake Park, that he had transferred the claim for the lumber used, amounting to $6000, to Gibson & Alexander.

Attention was called to the fact that the boathouse has not yet been completed, whereas it should have been finished by May 5. The matter was referred to the Superintendent and the secretary.

on motion the Superintendent was authorized to purchase 1000 amarylis bulbs, at 8 cents each, from Mr. Com-bulbs, at 8 cents each, from Mr. Compere.

The Superintendent was instructed to erect two water closets, swings and tables in Elysian Park, for the convenience of picnic parties.

Commissioner Mesmer was, on motion, appointed a committee of one to arrange for the boating privileges at East Los Angeles Park.

The board approved the pay-roll of the department, and the demands as presented, and also acted on a number of matters not particularly of public interest.

City Hall Notes.

The Board of Public Works did not meet yesterday, but will probably do so today.

It appears there was some misunderstanding last Tuesday among the members of the Polkec Commission regarding the revocation of the liquor licenses for the Palace, the Vienna Buffet and the Pacific. As recorded the saloon licenses only were revoked, but Commissioner Arneld states he understood the revocation to affect the restaurant liquor licenses for those places also. Commissioners Bradish and Weldon are reported to have so understood it also, and so it is probable the restaurant liquor licenses for those places will be revoked at the next meeting of the board. Not Likely.

Matters in the local political field are still quiet, but day after day new candidates continue to bob up. A rumor has been started to the effect that Capt. F. E. Gray would again be put forward as a candidate for the County Assessorship, but this story seems certainly far-fetched, as Capt. Gray stated emphatically not long since that he would not allow his name to be again his properties.

that storms and floods, prolonged strikes and large exports of gold, have done their utmost to give business a vacation, but the wants unsatisfied during the past year, belated and much lessened, and yet greater than those of any nation, have caused a volume of trade quite large for the season. Prices of products still fund-downward, without much speculation. It is surprising that farmers retain wheat at present prices when they can sell. Corn has been stronger, notwithstanding the larger receipts and insignificant exports. Cotton has recovered a shade to 74c, though receipts for the week were nearly as large as last year and exports much smaller. Pork products all declined with heavy receipts. The astonishing cheapness of wheat and cotton will affect the rapidity of movement in the fall, and also will directly lessen the amount of money required in moving the crops. White the iron industry especially, and many others to some extent, have been restricted by the scarcity of coal and coke, the number of works resuming has been greater than the number stopped from other causes. But it is a fact not to be overlooked that the demand for measing, appears for the most part rather smaller than before, and the indifference of buyers is shown in the cancellation of orders hitherto given. It is a waiting season, but the disposition to wait is thus far intensified. Failures diminish in importance, the amount of liabilities for the third week in May being only $2,204,139 and 50,25,007 of trading concerns. The number of failures reported this week is 183 in the United States, as against 18 last year. There are not any of much importance.

NEW YORK, May 25.—This was a builday on the Stock Exchange, and the result of the day's trading is that, with one or two exceptions, the active list shows an advance in prices as compared with the final sales of yesterday, ranging from \(^4\)@2\(^4\) per cent. Chief among the influences which brought about the appreciation in values were the agreement to maintain rates entered into by the railroad managers at Chicago, the easier tone of the sterling exchange market and the consequent cessation of got x-ports. The covering movement by the stories was quite pronounced in Sugar, the grangers, Chicago Gas, General by the stories was quite pronounced in Sugar, the grangers, Chicago Gas, General bectric, Missouri Pacific and New York Central. There was good buying too, for the London account in St. Paul and New York Central, while Boston buses bought Burlington and Quincy, and insiders were purchasers of Western Union. The fluctuations in Sugar were very frequent, the ranges being $8\(^4\)@60\(^3\). After an opening rise of \(^4\) per cent, a decline of 1\(^4\) per cent, and afinal reaction of \(^4\) per cent, leaving a gain on the grangers, St. Paul and Burlington and during the first four the price was under the price was unward. The came a fractional raily, after mand a shade higher, and during the first four the trend of prices was unward. The came a fractional raily, after any subsequent recovery. CHICAGO, May 25.—Wheat—Opening trades showed but little change, but the market gradually receded 4/c, rallied 4/6/2 4/c, again sold off, ruled steady and closed easy. Private cables reported the weather abroad favorable and prices easter, and foreigners were credited with selling in New York. There were a good many crop reports in from the country again today, but they were offset by the bear news. A feature was the free covering early by Fardridge, selling for New York account. The unfavorable industrial situation combined with other causes to weaken values.

Corn—Was very dull, within 4/c range.

Railroad That Gives Its Employees Prequent Vacations - Summer Time-Local Notes.

In line with what The Times has already printed on this subject a correspondent at Manti, Utah, writes additional information of the latest railroad enterprise which is headed this way:

It is stated that the San Pete Valley Railroad will be extended south-

It is stated that the San Pete Valley Railroad will be extended southwest toward the Pacific Coast this season. This has been decided by the management at Manti, Utah, the present southern terminus. The objective seaport is Los Angeles. A contract has been let for six miles of the extension, and work will begin in a short time. It is understood that sufficient money is at the command of sufficient money is at the command of the president to construct the road from Salt Lake City to the Nevada line, and that this work will be done before the snow falls.

This little road is now a narrow-line, and that this work will be done before the snow falls.

This little road is now a narrow-gauge, extending from Nephi to Mantt, a distance of forty-four miles. It is owned by an English company, represented in Utah by Theodore Bruback, a German. He is an aggressive character. In his recent trip to England he is reported to have interested one man worth about $85,000,000 in the project of building a railway between Salt Lake City and Los Angèles. The road will be built from Salt Lake City south this year. It will extend a distance of 353 miles in the Territory of Utah.

A purchase of 300 acres of coal lands has been made at a cost of $50,000. These lands are situated near Manti, the present terminus. An eight-foot vein of excellent coal has been opened, and the railroad company now uses the coal for locomotive fuel. The first work of extension will be the building of six miles of road to these mines. This will be made a narrow-gauge line and the main line from Salt Lake City to Nevada will be standard gauge. It is the purpose of the company to establish permanent bath-houses at Funk's Lake, an artificial sheet of cleer, mountain water, near the proposed six-mile terminal of the narrow-gauge line. All the present rolling stock will be used in hauling coal and running special excursion trains from Manti to the lake.

A combination is anticipated between this company and the Utah Central Railway Company. These two lines have been pooled against by other larger corporations of the Territory. If the combination is perfected the new line will extend through Salt Lake to Park City, the oldest and greatest mining camp in the Territory. The proposed route is through what might be made the best mining and farming section of Utah. Dirt will fly on the extension contract in a short time, and the Englishmen say that no stop will be made till the whiste is heard for Los Angeles.

IT IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL. A School Act Set Aside By the Supreme

A School Act Set Aside By the Supreme Court.

(San Francisco Chronicle, Thursday:) The Supreme Court yesterday declared unconstitutional the legislative act of March 20, 1891, providing for the establishment of high schools in California. The decision was rendered in the suit of J. P. McCabe, a citizen, against D. S. Carpenter, Tax Collector of Contra. Costa county. McCabe sued to have declared invalid an assessment levied under the provisions of the legislative act, which he alleged to be unconstitutional. The lower court sustained the act, whereupon McCabe appealed.

The appellant is fully sustained in his position by the decision of the Supreme Court, which reverses the lower court and orders judgment to be entered for McCabe. The legislature act is declared by the Appellate Court to be fatally defective, because it vests the power of making an assessment in the Superintendent of Schools. The Superintendent of Schools. The Superintendent of Schools. The Superintendent may report to them as needed. Properly speaking, says the court, an assessment should be levied by the Superintendent of Schools being an executive officer could not exercise a power delegated by the Constitution to the governing legislative body of the county, city or district affected.

ANOTHER REPORT.

Further Findings of the Grand Jury.

Methods of City and County Officers Discussed.

Weak Points Discovered and Commented Upon.

work of the City Water Overseer Recommendations to the Board of Supervisors Regarding Butchering Regulations.

Another partial report was filed yes terday afternoon by the grand jury in Department One. The matter conrained in the document is in the way o a continued review of the workings of city and county offices, some of which are complimented and others censured. The City Auditor and Water Overseer nome in for a share of the criticism, while a number of recommendations are made of methods which might remedy existing evils.

The entire text of the report is as fol-

"The City Auditor keeps dew books. These are principally of a general nature, showing the amount of cash which should have in its various penditures of the different departments They appear to be correct as far as they go, but it is evident that the Audithey go, but it is evident that the Auditor has an imperfect comprehension of the duties and responsibilities of the office. His salary is $3000, which should command the best possible service.

"The city charter gives him peculiar powers, and outlines his duties as follows:

"Sec. 43. The City Auditor shall."

lows:

"Sec. 43. The City Auditor shall act as the general accountant and fiscal agent of the city, and shall exercise a general superintendence over all the officers of the city charged in any manwith the receipt, collection or dis-sement of the city revenues. He shall keep a complete set of books, in which he shall set forth, in a plain and business-like manner, every money transaction of the city, so as to show a all times the state of each fund, from what source the money was derived, and for what purpose any money was expended, and also all collections made expended, and also all collections made and paid into the treasury by each offi-cer or any other person. He shall per-form such other duties as shall be re-expended, and also all collections made and paid into the treasury by each officer or any other person. He shall perform such other duties as shall be required of him by this charter or by the profinance.

"Sec. 217.No demand upon the treasury shall be allowed by the City Auditor in favor of any person or officer in any manner indebted thereto, without first deducting the amount of such indebtedness, nor to any person or officer having the collection, custody of or disbursement of public funds, unless his account has been duly presented, passed, approved and allowed, as required by law or this charter; nor in favor of any officer who has neglected to make his official returns or his reports in writing in the manner and at the time required by law or this charter, or by the ordinances or regulations made in pursuance thereof; nor to any officer who shall have neglected or refused to comply with any of the provisions of this charter or ordinances of the city, or any act of the Legislature regarding the duties of such officer, on being required in writing to comply therewith by the Mayor or the president of the Council; nor in favor of any officer for the time he shall have absented himself, without lawful cause, from the duties of his office during the office hours prescribed by this charter or by ordinance, and the City Auditor may examine any officer receiving a salary from the treasury on oath, touching such absence."

"It will be seen from this that a comprehensive superintendence of all books and accounts of the city government in its various departments is required of him, and he is given power to enforce such reports and such a system of book-keeping as will be most advantageous to the interests of the city.

"The Auditor has been particularly lax in keeping his accounts with the Water Overseer. His books show that an actual monthly settlement insisted upon. If he and his predecessor had properly discharged their duties, it would have been impossible for the street department to have been run in the loose of a large corporation, each department keeping its own, but under the supervision of the main office, which is the Auditor's.

"The departments of City Engineer and Street Superintendent expend large amounts every year, mostly for lebor, the supplies being nearly all purchased by the Council. The Auditor should see that these departments keep complete and accurate time-books, showing where each man in the employ of the department was engaged every day or part of a day, stating the work he was on, and at the end of the month the time should be charged up to the different branches of the work of the department. He should also see that the books of the department show the material received, and that, upon its use, it is charged to the different branches, as suggested in regard to the labor. The Auditor should see that all inspectors make daily reports in writing of the work done, materials used and such other data as may be found to be of value. Such a system as this, properly planned and conscientiously carried out, would meet the approval of every citizen, and enable the Auditor to make a report which could be understood by every intelligent taxpayer of the city. An official who would refuse to keep the necessary books would rarely be found, for the neglect to do so seems to be due principally to a lack of knowledge of what is requisite; should, however, such a man be encountered, the Auditor has power to bring him to terms by refusing to audit his warrant until his books are in such condition as will make a rapid and thorough examination possible.

"While at present the books of some of the offices are all that could be desired, it is no surety that they will not be neglected under future administrations. The adoption of such a system as we suggest would hold each man to a uniform and complete manner of keeping the records of the city's work. While the City Auditor is blamble in not having followed the charter in the performance of some of the incorporation of such a system as we suggest would hold each man to st and progressive way, worthy mmendation. The attention given to the inspection of foods is well placed. Especially commendable is sed. Especially commendable is increased interest of this officer in health of our school children. This been shown in the examination of the ventilation, lighting and plumbing of the schools, and in preventing the of the schools, and in preventing the spreading of contagious diseases. As the public becomes more generally informed on the importance of these matters they will give hearty and effective support to this beneficent work. "The Board of Health should control all the city medical work, including the Receiving Hospital. At the present time the physician in charge of the County Hospital, the Police Surgeon and City Physician seem to have no special spheres in the treatment of those too poor to pay for medical aid. Some confusion is liable to arise from this source. WATER OVERSEER.

"The ordinances governing the Water Overseer require the Auditor to supply him at the beginning of each month with such printed receipts, signed by him, with corresponding stubs, as he may need during the month, charging the same to his account. These receipts, when countersigned by the Water Overseer, are given to purchasers of water, the stubs being filled out the correspond with the receipts.

out to correspond with the receipts. It is also provided that all moneys re-ceived by him shall be deposited with the City Treasurer every week. the end of each month he is require the end of each month he is required to return to the Auditor any unused receipts which may remain, together with all certificates of deposits made with the Treasurer during the month. These, when placed to his credit, shall balance the account. If these requirements were met, the Auditor would have a check upon the Water Overseer, whose account would be examined and balanced every month. We regret to find, however, that the books and recwhose account would be examined and balanced every month. We regret to find, however, that the books and rec-ords in the office of the Water Overseer are carelessly kept and the ordinances governing this department are loosely observed. His books, and those of governing this department are loosely observed. His books, and those of the Auditor, seldom agree at the end of the month, although monthly settlements are required. At times his accounts seem to be overpaid, and at other times short.

"It appears to have been the custom of the Water Overseer to summarily impose fines upon persons who have been detected in stealing water, but, so far as we have been able to discover, no receipts have been given for moneys collected in this manner. There is, consequently, no way to determine definitely whether or not such funds have reached the treasury.

"We found that the Water Overseer had issued to persons who had paid for water permits, a large number of receipts, which were not on the printed forms with corresponding stubs, required to be supplied by the Auditor, but were written on ordinary letter paper. Against such receipts there was no possible check.

Auditor, but were written on ordinary letter paper. Against such receipts there was no possible check, except the accuracy or integrity of the officers. In two instances receipts of this character were placed in our possession, which did not appear on the books, and, in consequence, the money for which they were given, in all probability, did not reach the treasury. This may have resulted from a system, which he admitted to exist, by which amounts received for water sold were not always immediately by which amounts received for water sold were not always immediately placed upon the books, but were carried upon little slips of paper in his pockets. Soon after the grand jury began an investigation of his office, he turned into the treasury $278.75 in excess of the amount charged against him by the Auditor, stating his inability to file an itemized statement, as the law requires, by reason of the condition of his books.

"An examination of his books by our expert revealed many errors, and, especially, inaccurate footings. Although the Auditor's books indicated, after the payment above referred to, especially, inaccurate footings. Although the Auditor's books indicated, after the payment above referred to, that his account to May 1, 1894, was overpaid $278.75; his own books, when corrected, showed that there was still actually due the city $139.70 upon that date. In view of all these facts we are forced to the conclusion that there exists in the office of the Water Overseer conditions which can only result from incompetency upon the part of the incumbent, or from inexcusable neglect of the ordinances which should govern him.

CITY ENGINEER. "The City Engineer's office, under the present administration, is run in thoroughly business-like and system-the present administration, is fun in a thoroughly business-like and systematio manner. The books and records show the cost to the city of each piece of work, and the time-books show when each man in the employ of the department was at work, and how much of the expense was returnable to the city as incidentals, for work done under the Vrooman act.

"Taking the books of this department as a basis, all excuses for failure to keep complete records coming from any other office, on the ground of lack of sufficient help, would be excluded.

"The work on the outfall sewer was handled in a commendable manner, and in the same way as is the other work of the office. It is possible, by the Engineer's system, to trace each item of expense, and show the cost of each section, and the amount of materials furnished by the city. Among other thirgs, and to illustrate the City Engineer's method of superintendence, he has a system of receipts and re-Engineer's method of superintendence, he has a system of receipts and rehe has a system of receipts and re-ports, whereby is shownsthe disposal of every one of the several thousands of barrels of cement used in the con-struction of the outfall sewer. Each barrel can be traced from the wars-house to the teamster, to the inspector, to the contractor, and to the particular section where, and date upon which, it was used.

"This is in such a contrast to the administration of some other offices in the matter of records, the keeping of which is not compelled by constant public reference, that we consider it worthy of special mention and ap-worthy of special mention and approval.

"There is at present in the city treasury as credit to the outfall sewer fund, free from any debt or liability, $21.825. The unusual experience of having a great public work constructed at less than the estimated cost is a gratifying one, to which all our citizens may well feel a pride in calling attention.

SLAUGHTER-HOUSES.

"Our examination of the slaughter-houses in this county resulted in a general cleaning up, and has caused more care to be taken in the disgeneral cleaning up, and has caused more care to be taken in the disposal of slaughter-house refuse.

"The present system of meat inspection is confined to the wetail stores of the city, and is inadequate, even in the city, to give security against the sale of tainted or diseased meat. This inspection, to be effective, should take place at the slaughter-house, and should, by all means, include an examination of the condition of animals to be killed. The recent rapid growth of the population, centering in this city has increased the slaughter-house work to a point where the public safety demands a careful regulation of the business.

"We recommend that the Board of Supervisors take counsel with the City safety demands a 'careful 'regulation of the business.

"We recommend that the Board of Supervisors take counsel with the City Board of Health, and, with due regard to the interests of the butchers, pass such regulations and ordinances as will in protect the public from the danger of meat from isck cattle or of meat spoiled from lack of proper precaution against infection or decay.

"In line with the above suggestions we recommend: First, that the Board of Supervisors be requested to enact an ordinance regulating the slaughtering of all animals used for food; second, that no slaughter-house be permitted to carry on business without first procuring a license from the Board of Supervisors; third, that no slaughter-house shall be licensed to do business until a suitable building is constructed in a strictly sanitary manner, with cement floors and a cooling-room, to be located at least fifty feet interest.

from the slaughtering-room, said cooling-room to be screened to prevent contamination by files; fourth, that all useless offal be cremated, and that a perfect system of drainage be constructed, which shall carry all waste water and liquid matter away from the slaughter-house; fifth, that all slaughter-houses now being operated shall be required to comply with the provisions of such ordinance within six months, and that no slaughter-house shall be out a license; sixth, that the Health Of-ficer of each district be made respon-sible for the enforcing of this ordi-nance; that he be required to person-ally inspect the slaughter-houses in his district and report once a month to the Board of Supervisors, and that for such services he be paid $5 per day and 10 cents per mile for every mile traveled; seventh, that the license fee be $75 per annum, except for slaughter-houses killing less than three animals per week, in which case the fee shall be $5 per annum.

ROADS. "The examination made of the public coads and bridges in this county shows that the expenditures on these have that the expenditures on these have been large and that the results are unsatisfactory. Culverts have often been put in without tamping, and have consequently been washed out. Those made of wood rot and break down, injuring the fill they should protect.

"Bridges have been constructed without due regard to the strength of piers and safety of approaches, and without a proper calculation of the height and force of winter floods. From this cause the county has lost heavily on its bridges in flood years. On some roads in the last flood year every bridge and culvert was destroyed. In many cases to this day nothing but the fragment of an abutment remains to show where formerly stood an expensive bridge. an abutment remains to show where formerly stood an expensive bridge. "Much work is done on the roads which is of no real benefit, and is a frittering away of public funds. Large sums are spent on tools and machinery for the roads. At the same time we found no record of this property, no found no record of this property, no brand or stamp on any of it by which the county property could be identified, and no means of ascertaining what tools and machinery the county owns except by an arduous examination of the filed and machinery the county owns except by an arduous examination of the filed demands. In the course of our search for the property shown by these demands to have been bought we have been obliged to send out to the road officers several times for corrected inventories, and only after two months' effort have we been able to make the property bought and that on hand even approximately tally. This difficulty is nearly all due to an entire absence of proper business methods.

"The old system of elective road overseers was so bad that it was superseded by a new law placing the entire management of the roads in the hands of the Supervisors. Thus far the Supervisors have failed to use their large powers for improvement. To all intents and purposes the old system is still in force, and the old elected overseers are still generally in office. As seers are still generally in office. As before, so do they still do useless work have no time-books to show where la-bor was expended, no record of mate-rial used, and no account of tools bought. The road work is still without system, and without harmony of action. It is still both expensive and inefficient. "We recommend that the road wor be systematized, and suggest the fo lowing points:

"First: That each road overseer or foreman keep a book for the record of all labor performed and where it is done, of all material used and of all tools owned by the county; second, that all county property be branded before being delivered to any foreman or road overseer, and a receipt be required for the same, and that such property be charged to such person in a general road-book to be kept for the purpose; third, that general plans and specificathe same, and that such property be charged to such person in a general road-book to be kept for the purpose; third, that general plans and specifications be made for all important road work, and that the road work be done according to such plans. In this way the money expended will make good roads as far as it goes, and not be wasted, as is now too often the case; fourth, that the same policy be adopted as to bridges, and that no bridge be built until it can be built on proper plans, and in such a way that it will be likely to be a permanent improvement; fifth, that the policy of sprinkling the roads be extended as fast as practicable. This is the only way of keeping the roads in good condition during the dry season. No matter what expense may be put on our country roads, they never can be made attractive apd comfortable without sprinkling, nor do we think there is any cheaper method of keeping them in good repair.

HORITICULTURIAL COMMISSIONER.

HORTICULTURAL COMMISSIONER.

"In this office we found the books unposted since December, 1893. The large amounts expended through this office for supplies and labor, and the large amounts due from fruit men for fumigating and other official work, make this neglect prejudicial to the public service. None of the supplies seem to have been purchased through advertisement and bids. Of these supplies cyanide of potassium figures for some $3000 in 1893, and $1000 for tents, not advertised for. We believe the cost of this material to have been unnecessarily high. Then [$3318 has been expended for labor in fumigating orchards since October 1, 1891. This expenditure is without proper checks. Each labor demand should be sworn to. This is not now the case. Besides this, the demand for any given job of fumigating should be acompanied by a report from the owner or manager of the orchard where the work is performed. These bills are a tien on the orchards treated, and a severe burden to the unfortunate fruit-grower. Every precau-HORNICULTURAL COMMISSIONER. treated, and a severe burden to the un fortunate fruit-grower. Every precau-tion should be taken to prevent them from being inaccurate or excessive. Nor should such work be done unless clearly necessary for the general good. "The Horticultural Commissioner has large powers and important duties. These have not in all cases been wisely exercised. Deputies have in some cases exercised. Deputies have in some cases been too severe, and in others too lenient. It cannot be sound sense to force expensive work for insect destruction on orchardists in any district, unless the work is made thorough and complete, not only as to the individual piece, but as regards the district. We believe that poor inspection and careless work has been done in this line, and that in many cases infected orchards or nurseries have been left untreated among those forced to fumigate.

"Whether orchard pests once fully established can be eradicated by artificial means is open to question. We established can be eradicated by artificial means is open to question. We suggest that the best present use of the horticultural law would be to prevent the introduction of new pests and to arrest the spreading of those here. The Horticultural Commission cost, in 1893, $10,721.97. Of this very large sum the District Attorney's approval appears on only $48.69. One specially questionable item is the allowance by the Supervisors of $393 to the Commissioner for railroad commutation ticket to and from Duarte, where he resides.

the Commissioner for railroad commutation ticket to and from Duarte, where he resides.

"We believe the cost of this office should be reduced and the present methods reformed. We recommend that printed receipts be provided for inspectors, to be signed by parties for whose benefit services are rendered, whether inspection or fumigation, and these receipts be attached to the several demands of the inspectors.

"It is important that all inspections be made thorough and conclusive, and that a certificate be attached to each lot of trees inspected. A proper system of this kind would obviate the necessity of reinspection whenever such trees were transferred to another district.

"Large investments of energy and capital have been made in developing the fruit-growing industries of Southern California. Still larger development is in prospect. The values already created and the future prospects of the fruit interests should not be destroyed nor marred by any negligence on our part. No effort should be spared nor precau-tion neglected for the prevention of the introduction of fnjurious insects.

the introduction of figurious insects. A majority of the grand jury recommend that the Supervisors appoint three commissioners at a compensation of $2.50 per day for time actually engaged, $1 per day for railroad fare or buggy hire when required.

"The following is a classified statement of the demands allowed the commissioners from September 28, 1891, to May 1, 189; Commutation tickets, $393; miscellaneous railroad fares, $318.70; ilvery, $380.80; salary, $4020; fumigating, $3318.55; expense $214.95.

COUNTY AUDITOR.

COUNTY AUDITOR.

"The duties of the County Auditor are not as broad and general as those of the City Auditor. With regard to the keeping and inspection of the county books, the Board of Supervisors has employed an expert book-keeper and assistant, to supervise the county officers' accounts. Besides this, the Supervisors employed a book-keeper, at an expense of over $300, to introduce a system of book-keeping. Both of these acts of the Supervisors are commendable and in the public interest.

"The only careful examination of the demands on the county, in the way of a check on the Supervisors, now comes from the District Attorney's office. The deputies employed for such extra work as the extension of the assessment roll were apparently not selected by the lauditor for their fitness as expert accountants.

"The Moore system, introduced over the Auditor's head, has two defects, viz.: First, it does not cover the entire county business; second, it is accompanied by a royality on copyrights that is unjustified by the contract for the system.

"The District Attorney should take that is unjustified by the contract for the system.

"The District Attorney should take such action as will end all of this constant tribute to Mr. Moore, or his assignees, or to any other person, who may be drawing money for copyrights not enforceable by law. We would rec-ommend the Supervisors to use their present expert book-keeper staff for the introduction of a simple and effec-tive system of accounts for all public offices, together with a proper record system for all public property."

Robinet, the Child-beater, Found Guilty as Charged.

Queer Circumstances Developed in Three-cornered Battery Case - Mrs. Parker Resented Hall's Insinuatlons-Petty Cases.

In the Police Court yesterday afternoon W. G. Langdon, a solitary drunk, was fined $2; Jose Gallejo was ined $5 for carrying a conceale veapon, and thirteen unfortunates upon pleading guilty to the charge of soliciting on Alameda street, were fined in sums ranging from $20 to $10 lottery ordinance, and upon entering his plea of not guilty thereto was released upon bail to reappear for trial Monday next.

Anatole Robinet of No. 515 South Flower street was tried and convicted of cruelty to his child on May 7, last, and was ordered to appear for sentence at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The evidence for the prosecution showed that the defendant, while intoxicated, thrashed the child with a strap, to which a buckle was attached, and severely injured him; that the little fellow ran away to a neighbor's house, but upon being returned home next day was locked up in a closet and kept there for a week; that he again ran away from home and was placed in the Newsboys' Home by M. V. Wright of the Humane Society, to whom the matter had been reported, but was taken from that institution by his father, who thrashed him again. The child escaped a third time, and has since been under the protection of a sympathetic lady who resides on East Third street. The defendant, an excitable Frenchman, admitted that he had good and sufficient reasons for administering such severe punishment, but the court did not appear to think so, and found Robinet guilty as charged.

George A. Parker, an alleged actor, appeared before Police Justice Austin for trial upon the charge of battery, preferred against him by Clarence Hall, a printer, who resides at No. 784 Lyons street. From the testimony taken a somewhat peculiar condition of affairs was developed. It appeared that the complainant and a friend named Robinson, a teamster, spent Tuesday evening together in a highly convival manner. After the saioons closed up at midnight, Hall insisted upon taking a friend named Charlie named Robinson, a teamster, spent Tuesday evening together in a highly convivial manner. After the saioons closed up at midnight, Hall insisted upon taking a friend named Charlie Gerkens home. All three men were decidedly insbriated, but were not too drunk to remember what happened. Upon arrival at Gerkens's house Hall went in, leaving Robinson outside, and just as he entered Mrs. Parker, a tall brunette, rushed up to the door, leaving her escort, a miner named Brauller, outside. After an exchange of compliments with Mrs. Gerkens, the Parker woman returned to her escort and went away, but soon afterward Hall and Robinson met them on Aliso street. Mrs. Parker then asked Hall what he was doing out at that hour of the night, and why he did not go home to his wife. Hall retorted that Mrs. Parker "had none the best of him," as she was out with a strange man. One word led to another, and finally Hall told Mrs. Pärker that her husband was disreputable. Then Mrs. Parker slapped Hall, who told her that if "she wanted to scrap he would go home and get his woman to come down and lick her." At this juncture, however, Parker appeared upon the scene and rushed upon Hall, who was leaning up against a fence, overcome with fatigue and the "jag" he had acquired. After knocking Hall down Parker jumped upon him with more or less violence and "smashed" him in the face, until some of the other men interfered. The court, evidently considering that Hall had only himself to blame, discharged the defendant.

NATURAL CAUSES.

Two Were Inquests Held by the Coroner Yesterday. Coroner Cates held an inquest yes Coroner Cates held an inquest yesterday morning at the undertaking establishment of Sharp & Samson upon the body of Capt. Isaac Fremont Moody, a native of New York, 47 years of age, who died suddenly at his post at the Los Angeles Theater on Thursday night last. The testimony taken before the Coroner's jury was in effect merely a reiteration of the facts published in The Times yesterday morning, and it being shown that death was due to heart disease, a verdict was rendered accordingly.

An inquest was also held, later in the day, at Robert Garrett & Co.'s undertaking establishment, upon the body of Josef Perino, a native of Switzerland, 28 years of age, who was found dead in bed yesterday morning at a Buena Vista-street lodging-house. Death being undoubtedly due to consumption, a verdict of natural causes was rendered.

MANUAL TRAINING.

Friday Morning Club Discusses the Subject.

Mrs. Edward T. Pierce Reads a Paper Containing Some Pertinent Points-"A Sound Mind in a Healthy Body." The Argument.

The regular meeting of the Friday Morning Club held yesterday was well attended. Mrs. Edward T. Pierce read ject much thought, and her paper was listened to with the closest attention. She declared that if manual training was shown to be a necessary part of right elementary education, it went without saying that in this land of free public schools, it must and ought to be maintained at public expense. That educational reform was attracting popular attention it needed but a glance at our leading periodicals to show, and for proof that it claimed the thought of educationists, it was only necessary to notice the recent lelaborate work of the Committee of Ten, a committee composed of the leading men among the teachers of the United States, with President Eliot of Harvard College at their head and organized with the intent to discover the weak points in our schools, and to suggest plans for improvement. This commission reported that, while, in their judgment, the greatest peril to education was an attempt to lower and vulgarize the higher institutions of learning, yet, at the same time, the whole idea and practice of primary education needed a thorough overhauling in the interests of common intelligence upon which we depended for decent government. The committee also state that "the majority of our common schools are in the hands of poorly-paid, and, therefore, poorly-trained teachers, who are placed in their positions by men wholly incompetent to judge of their fitness." These references went to show the character and extent of the tide of conviction that was beginning to rise in the sea of public feeling, with respect to this guestion of education.

Mrs. Pierce declared that man did public schools, it must and ought t be maintained at public expense.

feeling, with respect to this guestion of education.

Mrs. Pierce declared that man did not consist merely of a head, but also of hands and heart, and that symmetrical development demanded the proper training of all three. That in this way only, through the activity of all these three attributes, could the proper development of man be accomplished. This, she thought, was the science of education in a nutshell. Mrs. Pierce This, she thought, was the science of education in a nutshell. Mrs. Pierce also alluded to the good work done by the kindergarten, and said that it was a matter of rejoicing that they were now accepted as the correct beginning now accepted as the correct beginning of school training in all the educational centers of this country and Europe. Mrs. Pierce described her recent visit to the manual training school at Santa Barbara, and said that it was inspiring to see how surely nature responded to the simple loyalty that takes her at her word.

Regarding the question: "Ip manual training practical?" she declared emphatically that it was. In speaking of time that could be saved in the public schools she said that she had taken some pains to investigate the world of business with respect to its requirements in arithmetic and found that for all ordinary purposes a quick and accurate accountant was all that was asked for or needed. She though that of the eight years through which arithmetic was carried in our public schools four were entirely sufficient for a thorough mastery of the essentials, and that manual training might be alternated with arithmetic without any loss.

manual training might be alternated with arithmetic without any loss.

The common schools were not for the education of any class. They should secure to every child, rich or poor, his birthright of broad and rational preparation, whereon he might build his special calling, whatever it was when he has reached the age of independent choice.

At the conclusion of the reading of Mrs. Pierce's paper Mrs. Fay introduced Prof. John Dickinson, who also made a short address on manual training. A discussion followed, in which Mrs. Charlotte L. Wills and Mrs. E. P. Hubbard took a prominent part.

As a citizen he was progressive and public-spirited, and his influence was uniformly exerted for the advancement of what he believed to be advancement of what he believed to be the best interests of the community in which he resided. His death will be felt in Peoria, where he lived so long, as a personal bereavement by hundreds of geopie. Of his children there remains but one son, John E. Murray of this city, who, with his devoted wife, has been constantly at his bedside during his illness, and everything that medical science or skillful nursing could do to prolong his life was done. The nature of the malady, however, was such that all was in vain. The remains will be taken to Peoria, Ill., and laid in the family vault in Springdale Cemetery.

CHARGED WITH CRIME.

Will Luckenbach Makes a Very Foolish Will Luckenbach, a youth about 22 ears of age, and two young women, tel and Josie White, were brought in who styled themselves Mrs. B. A. Wattel and Josie White, were brought in from Norwalk yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Holgate, and locked up in the County Jail, charged with the serious offense of grand larceny.

The specific charge against them is that of stealing a surrey and team belonging to S. J. Wethern, proprietor of a livery stable on Grand avenue, between Eighth and Ninth streets. The Wattel woman hired the rig on Thursday afternoon, ostensibly to drive to Pasadens, but falled to return it. Inquiries were made, which resulted in the arrest of the trio at Norwalk. It appears that after leaving the livery stable, the Wattel woman picked young Luckenbach up on Broadway, and later on they added Josie White and another young man to their party. After partaking of some liquid refreshments, and supplying themselves with more for their future needs, the quartette left the city in a northerly direction, but without any apparent destination. Their arrival at Newhall late that night, and their hilarious condition, attracted considerable attention. When a telephone message was received from the Sheriff's office yesterday morning, instructing Holgate to look out for such a party, he had no difficulty in locating them. The second young man, who was picked up by Luckenbach and his fair companions, was not detained, it being evident that he was in no way connected with the theft of the outfit.

Tried to Escape.

Joe Sullivan, Jim McCarthy and Joe Morgan, three of the worst criminals on the chain gang, made a futile attempt to escape from the City Prison yesterday morning. The trio, having refused to work on the chain gang, was confined in a dark cell, and while the place was being cleaned out took advantage of the confusion attendant upon the change of watch, and climbed up to the rafters, with the evident intention of escaping through one of the skylights. Fortunately, however, they were immediately missed, and their hiding-place discovered before their preconcerted scheme could be carried out. Tried to Escape.

Wild Rumors About a New Tourists' Hotel.

Progress of the Pasadena Electric Railroad Enterprise.

The Grand Jury on Our Defective Thoroughfares.

es—An Important Auction—Listed Lands—The Oil Boom—A Gradusted Land Tax.

There has been no special feature of interest in the real estate markt during the past week. While the transactions have not been very large, the demand for property continues quite encouraging, and the outlook for the summer is much better than it. summer is much better than it been for many years. A PAPER HOTEL.

A PAPER HOTEL.

Another addition was made this week to the long list of handsome tourists' hotels that have been built in Los Angeles—on paper. A local journal which occasionally gets terribly excited, and which is not always noted for the accuracy of its reports, created quite an excitement among property-owners north of The Times office by printing about a column of matter regarding a grand $800,000 hotel which was to be erected immediately, if not sooner, on Fort Hill, North Broadway, by a syndicate of Chicago capitalists. The article was so explicit that a good many people thought it must be at least partially accurate, and some enterprising real estate men who have lots in that neighborhood at once began to advertise them as being near the "grand hotel." The facts of the case—which were known to The Times over two months ago—are that some Chicago people who were in Los Angeles, and were figuring on putting up a hotel, obtained options on a few lots in the neighborhood referred to, but the options were permitted to lapse and nothing further was done. This is all there is to it.

Meantime, negotiations are still under way in regard to the Tenth-street hotel, and it is said by those who are on the inside that there is every probability of a successful termination. There has, however, been so much talk on the subject during the past five years, that the public will want to see actual building operations going on before they take much stock in these reports.

THE OIL BOOM. THE OIL BOOM.

There oil boom.

There is no diminution in the oil boom, to which reference was made last week. Several more wells have been started, and preparations are being made to put up some improved machinery, which will do much more effective work than that which is at present in use. Owners of some of the wells have had the oil examined by an expert, who states that it is the finest kind of lubricating oil, and it is stated that a small refinery will be built near the wells, back of the Second-street Park. Work upon the well on Macy street, across the river, continues with encouraging results. There are different opinions among experts as to the importance of the oil discoveries. Some say that we are not likely to get any considerable amount of oil while others, on the contrary, believe that the indications are very encouraging, and that Los Angeles may turn out to be another Newhall, or Sespe, or Puente, if not another Pittsburgh. It is admitted by all that if petroleum could be manufactured here in abandance, it would be a splendid thing for the manufacturing industry. The fuel question would then be solved.

PASADENA RAILWAY ENTERPRISE It is announced that the company which has undertaken to build an electric railway from Los Angeles to Pasadena has arranged to purchase from for the road, and it is said that work will be pushed forward very rapidly as soon as the material arrives. There has already been quite an improvement in the demand for property out along the route of the road, and an auction sale of lots fronting on the Mission road, opposite the East Side Park, will probably be held in a few weeks. The lots referred to comprise what is known as the Terminus Homestead tract. It is said that this will be a bona-fide auction, and that the lots will be allowed to go for what they will bring. It is understood that the new Pasadena Railway Company will handle the Main-street and Agricultural Park line, and that it is their intention eventually to extend this line out to Santa Monica.

line, and that it is their intention eventually to extend this line out to Santa Monica.

Commenting upon this subject the Builder and Contractor says:

"The Los Angeles, Pasadena and Altadena Railroad Company give out that they have made a contract with the Risdon Iron Works of San Francisco to construct their road from Los Angeles to Pasadena, by way of the Mission road. The amount of the contract is said to be $538,000, and the line is to be completed in eleven months; that it will be double track, with latest and finest equipments, and it will start at Agricultural Park and include the present Main-street line. It is proposed to begin work in thirty days, if there are no attempts to block the enterprise. It is stated that nearly all the right-of-way has been secured. The plan is to use large forty-foot cars on the suburban run, and twenty-eight-foot cars in the city. A prominent railroad man said today that if this scheme is accomplished, together with the proposed Main-street extension, its cross-town and belt-lines, it will make two large opposition systems and create a very costly rivalry on account of cutting up the revenues, the same as was done before the consolidation of the cable and electric lines.

BOYLE HEIGHTS. Another railway enterprise, which has been much talked of recently is a new electric line to Boyle Heights. Extended the Workman, who recently placed his Park tract on the market, and Mayor Workman, who recently placed his Park tract on the, market, and has met with an encouraging demand for property there, says that if the Consolidated Company does not build a road soon he will go to work and build it himself. Such a line would probably cross the river somewhere in the neighborhood of Seventh street. As has been stated several times in these columns, the building of another line across the river, which would furnish rapid transportation, in addition to the existing line, would be followed by a greatly-increased demand for property on the Heights, which has never yet had a real boom. The increase in the value of property which would immediately follow such an improvement would be sufficient to pay for the road. It seems as if the property owners on the Heights should be able to combine and secure the building of such a road. It is scarcely probable that the Consolidated Company will at present undertake any new enterprise requiring the expenditure of a large amount of capital.

A CAHUENGA VALLEY SALE.

A prominent physician of San Frances which exists in a small canyon on the property, and expects not only to have enough for himself, but some for sale to his neighbors. It is said that the dummy line which now runs out from the end of Temple street to Hollyyood, will shortly be extended to Laurel Canyon, which is a delightful summer resort, and would be much frequented by city people if it were made accessible to the general public. Many lemon trees are being planted in the Cahuenga Valley, which has been found to be specially adapted to this fruit. The few who have lemon orchards in bearing have made large profits.

It is quite a busy scene in and around the Briswalter tract, in the southern part of the city. Streets are being graded, sidewalks laid, shade trees planted, and houses going up. In fact, that section of the city is undergoing a complete transformation. A new narrow-gauge rialway track is being laid on Central avenue, from Washington street to the city limits, in place of the old mule-car track. After this is laid better service is promised. It is expected that the track will be extended before long to and beyond the city line, to Vernon.

AN IMPORTAINT AUCTION.

AN IMPORTANT AUCTION. Mention was made in these columns recently that Balfour, Guthrie & Co., of San Francisco had placed in the hands of a Los Angeles agent for sale several pieces of property upon which they had foreclosed. Another San Francisco institution, the German Savings and Loan Society, is going to offer at auction in Los Angeles, through a local agency, a number of important pieces of property, improved and unimproved, on the 2d of next month Among this property is the Roberts Block, at the northeast corner of Main and Seventh streets, and the big Vickery Block, on North Main street, near the Plaza, upon which property the bank, it is said, loaned $40,000 during the boom. Such sales as these are useful in bringing out the true market value of property is allowed to go to the highest bidder. Mention was made in these column

DEFECTIVE STREETS. of the grand jury report to propertyowners is that which deals with defects in our graded and paved streets. The report shows a disgraceful condition of affairs in this direction. Much of the street work which has only recently been completed is in a very bad condition. The work on many of the streets is far below the specifications which were called for in the contracts. There is no excuse for this sort of thing. It is simply fobbery on part of the contractors, and others must have been guilty with them in passing such defective work. As an instance of the loose manner in which this work is done the grand jury mentions one case in which an assessment for $1700 was compromised for $700. Of course the property-owners refused to submit quietly to the steal, but proceeded to make it warm for the contractor. It is an outrageous thing that after property-owners have gone to great expense in paying for street improvements, often when they are really unable to afford it, they should be swindled in this manner. This is a matter which should engage the attention of the various improvement associations. They should see that all work is fully up to the contract before the contractors are permitted to draw their pay. At present the average contractor counts upon the efficacy of the old proverb, which says that "what is everybody's business is nobody's business."

LISTEED LANDS.

At a recent meeting of the State of the grand jury report to property-owners is that which deals with defects

LISTED LANDS. At a recent meeting of the State Board of Trade the Finance Committee reported as follows:

"We recommend that the general manager be instructed to make an effort to procure an organization in each of the interior counties of the State that will co-operate with the State board in the matter of exhibits as well as that of listing lands; that whenever a tract of land comes to the manager, described with references to its proximity to a railway station, water transportation, town or city, character of soil, former productions in kind and quality, its adaptibility to certainnamed products, its price and terms of payment, with such other matters of detail as the manager may prescribe, all indorsed by a local organization composed of citizens not directly interested in the sale of the tract, the manager shall cause the list to be exhibited to inquire for land in the section of the State in which the same shall be located. The organization of the county in which it is located must be represented in the State board, and parties listing land shall pay expenses that may be entailed on the board because of such listing. At any time that extra clerical force may be needed in the board because of such listing the manager shall distribute the expenses among the organizations co-operating with the board, or to the land, as the manager of the board may deem best, when such contingency may arise.

"This board must not resume the responsibility of guaranteeing any of the conditions set out in any list.

"The local organization must furnish the name of some one conveniently located to whom inquiries may be sent. Lands coming through real estate agents to local organizations are not to be ignored, but the manager must so note and explain to inquirers."

The motion to carry out the recommendation of the committee was adopted with only one dissenting voice, that of a Yolo county man, who made a strong speech against it. It is very doubtful whether a State board of trade or a chamber of commerce fulfills the board to make special efforts for the sale of lands at a great distance. Even local agents

There has recently been some efformade in California to inaugurate There has recently been some effort made in California to inaugurate a movement for a graduated land tax. In its editorial columns, The Times has discussed this question and has taken the ground that if the taxes were fully and fairly assessed and collected under the existing laws, it would be as much as we should ask—would be reform enough for the present. It seems that New Zealand has a tax of this character, and, according to the American Consul at Auckland, it is working very well. Mr. Connolly, the Consul referred to, describes the New Zealand system as follows:

A personal-property and land tax was imposed up to 1891. The property tax has been substituted by an 'improvement ax' under which improvements on land up to $1,500,000 valuation are exempt, but above that amount are taxed. Deduction of mortgages and of improvements to a value of $15,000 renders many owners exempt from land tax. There is an exemption of $2500, so that no man pays taxes for State purposes until his property is worth over that amount.

"A graduated tax is levied also for which all improvements are deducted, but an owner is not allowed to make any deduction for mortgages owned by him, and he has not to include in his return any mortgage owing by him. The tax is not imposed on any owner the value of whose land, less improvements, does not exceed $25,000, and the lowest rate imposed is one-eighth of a penny in the pound. The rate generally rises till it reaches 2 pence in the pound on the improved value of lands up to $1,500,000 or more.

"In the case of owners who have been absent from the colony for three years or over, prior to the passing of the yearly tax act, a tax of 20 per cent. additional over and above the ordinary and graduated tax. This is intended as a measure against absenteelsm, and its train of evils, and to compensate in some degree the country for the losses sustained thereby."

SHADE TREFES.

It is pleasing to note that propertyowners of one of the leading thoroughfares of Pasadena recently refused by unanimous vote to sanction the cutting down of the ancient pepper trees which align that street. Nothing conduces more to the beauty of a street than a couple of rows of wellkept shade trees. This feature of our streets is especially appreciated by newcomers from the East, and it is not too much to say that a property-owner can generally count on getting from such people 10 per cent. more for a lot in front of which there are shade trees than for a lot where none exist. In deed, during the boom, enthusiasts from the East have been known to pay as much as $500 for a particularly fine large specimen of a live oak.

The desirability, from a financial as well as an esthetic point of view, of planting shade trees on new tracts when they are laid out cannot too often be impressed on property-owners.
The question has not been given so much attention as it should have received in Los Angeles, considering the great advantages of our soil and climate, which enable us to grow delicate and rare varieties of trees which would not succeed in colder sections. On some streets property-owners, by combining and planting one variety of tree, have produced very attractive results.
This is notably the case on Santee street, where a variety of black acacia has been set
SIXTH STREET.

Property-owners on Sixth street, be-SHADE TREES.

SIXTH STREET.

Property-owners on Sixth street, between Spring and Pearl street, are complaining very loudly at the condition in which that street is allowed to remain. The paving is in a terrible condition and, altogether, the street presents a disreputable appearance. It is no wonder that under such circumstances Sixth street lags behind the other east and west streets in the march of improvement. There is no reason why within a few years this should not become an important business throughfare, but in order to achieve this result the property-owners on the street will have to combine for the general good. By the way, there has been some talk about the haymarket on Sixth and Pearl streets as a good site for a public market place. It would be very central.

BUILDING.

BUILDING. The activity in the building trade

The activity in the building trade continues as great as ever. It is really remarkable what a number of buildings are going up at present in almost every section of the city, from East Los Angeles to the University and from Elysian Park to Vernon.

The Builder and Contractor notes the following uncontracted new work:
Plans are being prepared for B. F. Coulter for a fourteen-room frame residence, to be erected on Grand avenue, near Court; cost not estimated.

Architects Morgan and Walls have prepared plans for the Dominguez estate for a two-story stone and brick office building, to be erected on Main street, north of First street; cost not estimated.

E. Wilson is about to erect a four-street, north of First street; cost not estimated.

E. Wilson is about to erect a four-story stone building on Broadway, between Fourth and Fifth streets; it will have six stores on first floor, with glass-plate fronts, the upper stories to be used for hotel purposes.

Plans are being prepared for B. M. Given, for the erection of a nine-room colonial residence at San Dimas; cost $2800.

Mr. Knoll will build a five-room cottage on Third, near Alameda; cost $1000.

Plans are being prepared for a three-story brick block, to be erected in the center of the city; cost about $25,000.

Plans are being drawn for a two-story nine-room dwelling on Croker street, for F. Levy; to cost $2000.

Mr. Frick is about to erect a five-room dwelling on Water street; to cost about $1400.

Plans are being prepared for a seven-room dwelling on Water street; to cost about $1400.

Plans are being prepared for a seven-room dwelling, to be erected on Thirteenth street, for Mr. Robinson; cost $2000.

The same paper also notes a large amount of building improvement under way in Pasadena, which ambitious city is evidently keeping up with the procession.

Crops and Markets.

The weather during the past week as been fair, with considerable fog along the coast. No more rain has In fact, it is now too late to expect anything more than an occasional sprinkle.

The grain harvest has commenced in some sections of Southern California and within a few weeks we shall know more accurately, what the crop is likely to amount to. Those who have been through the country lately say that the barley crop is likely to be smaller than many anticipated. The grain is much thinner on the ground in many cases than it appears to be on the road. On the great San Joaquin ranch in Orange county, which is usually counted upon for a very large crop, the harvest this year will be a very light one. Growers are firm in their ideas of values and do not appear to be inclined to accept present prices for the coming crop. One large grower in this county was asked the other day if he would sell his crop to be delivered at a price equivalent to $1.05 in Los Angeles and he replied that he would not. Owing to the fogs and cool weather which have prevailed there are some limited sections near the coast which expect to harvest quite a good crop. Dan Freeman is reported to expect as much as $0,000 sacks off his Centinela ranch, which gave a good crop in the dry year of 1876-77. On the other hand, there are some sections in the interior where there will scarcely be a crop of hay, much less of grain. In some cases farmers will even have to buy After all, however, those growers who have even a small crop of grain or hay will do better than they last year, when the price was so low that it searcely paid to harvest the crops. This year it is likely that many of the farmers will get as much as $15 a ton for their hay, baled, while last year it was only worth about $5. As the cost of cutting and baling remains the same, this of course, makes an immense difference to the grower.

Deciduous fruit is beginning to apthe market in considerable variety, but so far all of it, except the berries, comes from the North, ries are now of fine quality and good berries have been a little scarce during the week, the first crop having been disposed of. New potatoes are plentiful and the price has dropped considerably. The orange crop has almost been cleaned up. Those which are now offered are mostly St. Michaels and Mediterranen Sweets. After berries ome plentiful the demand for oranges falls off very rapidly. Dairy products have not so far shared in the advance of feed. Butter is a little lower, being governed by Eastern and Northern quotations. Eggs are firm at 15 cents a dozen.

New Ideas Regarding the Olive. An interesting and important bulletin

has just been issued from the experi-ment station of the University of Cal-Ifornia, giving the results of investiga-tions of California olives and olive oils. Some facts are stated in this which will be new to many pamphlet which will be new to many California growers. As so many olive orchards have been planted during the past few years, it is quite important that the results of these investigations should be widely published, and all who are interested in this subject are recommended to send for a copy of this bulletin, which is numbered 104. written by A. P. Hayne, assistant, in charge of viticulture and olive

According to this bulletin the common belief which prevails in California that the proper state of maturity of olives is when they have reached jet-blackness; also, that it makes little differtree or in storage after being picked, is an error, not only as regards the making of oil, but the picking of the fruit also. The quantity of oil in the flesh is the same at the time of redness as it is a month after the letlack color has been reached, so there is nothing to be gained in quantity by delaying the harvest. What is of ore importance is that the quality of the oil in the olives deteriorates the longer they are allowed to remain on the tree, after proper maturity (redness) has been reached, for the olein, which gives true quality to olive oil. 'greasy" substance, increases. On the European market "greasy" oils bring lower prices than oils without this

While it is true that some varieties naturally have more stearin than others, yet it is equally true that this "greasiness" is greatly lessened by early harvesting. In two lots or Rubras, received at the university this year, one of wine-red color and the other jet black, this difference was noted at once, even by persons not accustomed to sa uping oil. But, aside from this "greaty" or "lardy" taste, oil made from over-ripe olives is more apt to "cloud," and to deposit a granu'ar sediment in the bottles, than in the case of oil made from what are considered "under-ripe" olives. Should the temperature fall 45 deg. the oil of the over-ripe olive will solidify, while that of the other will remain clear and brilliant till the temperature falls 8 deg. or 10 deg. lower. As a rule the aser will prefer a clear, brilliant

The writer of this bulletin also furnishes a large amount of interesting information in regard to the most improved methods of manufacturing oil. are also given the results of any analyses, which have been made various kinds of California cat.

Hitherto the most of our growers, and, indeed, with most of the con-umers, olive oil has been olive oil, as in the early days of wine making, red wine was red wine. With the development of the industry, how-ever, both the growers and the pub-lie are becoming better educated on the et. In Europe there is as much of olive oil as there is in those of wines, and it will be the same in California before long. In the mean time, those growers who begin early to make a good variety of oil will establish a name for themselves that will be worth a great deal of money

The Grape Fruit.

The Earl Fruit Company sends The Times the following communication from H. Harris & Co., commission merchants of Boston, dated May 15:

"We wish to call especial attention to the increasing demand for grape fruit. We sold today at public auction sixty-nine boxes that came from twelve different growers. We mention this to show that it was not any espesold from $2.121/4 to $9.25 per box, one lot of seventeen boxes selling for $9.25 per box, and the sixty-nine boxes averaging $6.21 per box. We strongly advise our friends to plant more grape fruit, as it certainly is growing in favor every year."

In forwarding this communication the Earl Fruit Company say that they have made some shipments from California which have resulted in a satis factory manner. They say there are a few trees at Colton, and suggest that the planting of grape fruit on a large scale might be a good idea, as the fruit is getting to be a great favorite in the Sicily to Florida about forty years ago. and planted in a few door yards. Pe ple soon began to acquire a taste for siderable area was planted. About two years ago C. B. Hewitt gave the folowing description of this fruit in the Crown Vista, a paper published at

"They ripen about March 1 to 15 in Florida, and are good until July. In Southern California they will ripen fully two months later and be at their best when another later. Florida, and are good until July. In Southern California they will riper fully two months later and be at their best when such a refreshing fruit is in the greatest demand during the warm weather. Very little budding has been done with this fruit yet, most all of it being raised from the seed, the fruit ranging nearly allke. Some experiments have been made in crossing it with the orange, and in time a strictly seedless pumalo may be obtained; however, the original is good enough for most any one. The aesthetic are fond of it as a breakfast dish or appetizer. The dyspeptic claims to have received great help and even wonderful cures from it. The fruit, if eaten at the proper time, is almost, a sure oure-for makarts and wideney troubles. One generally has to acquire a taste for it, but when once acquired the appetite is great. Many like the flavor at first. When fully ripe the color of the rind is a chrome yellow. The leaves of the tree are much like the orange, although larger, more waxy and a darker green when fully matured. It is a very rapid grower, one-third larger than the seedling orange at the same age, a profuse bloomer and very fragrant. I saw grower, one-third larger than the seed-ling orange at the same age, a pro-fuse bloomer and very fragrant. I saw one tree that measured nearly seven feet in circumference and over forty feet in height, but it is over 30 years old, and bore between six thousand and seven thousand fruit, weighing on an average over one pound each. This seems a big story; however, if any one doubting this statement wishes to go seems a big story; however, if any one doubting this statement wishes to go to the trouble to investigate, I can procure the proof. I have heard of still greater trees. A sample of the cluster pumalo taken from a cluster of ten may be seen at the Crown Vista office. This sample is not fairly ripe, but it shows the size and general style of the fruit. I am anxious to see enough of this kind of citrus fruits planted in Southern California to make general shipments East, and will willingly give any further information desired."

In a recent article on the fruit and vegetable trade it was stated in the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin that New York is in all prob ability the greatest fruit and vegetable market in the world. It is so much the largest city in this country that it is unnecessary to examine the statistics of its trade in these articles of food. In the Old World there are larger cities, but their people do not eat anything like the amount of fruit that we do, and it is only necessary to recognize these general facts to reach the conclusion that nowhere else in the world is there anything like the traffic in fruits and vegetables, especially early vegetables, that there is here. This view is certainly borne out by the profusion and variety now seen in our markets. Among Northern winter vegetables, parsnips, carrots, beets, cabbage, salsify, Brussels sprouts and turnips are still abundant and cheap, while Kalamazoo celery may be had for 25 cents a root, and Vineland sweet potatoes at $6 a barrel. Of the spring vegetables, asparagus was, last week, in greatest abundance in the markets. An experimental shipment of this vegetable from California showed little deterioration from the three-thousand-mile journey, beyond a suggestion of being water-soaked on the cut ends, and the quality was fair. It sold for 25 cents a bunch. Asparagus is now coming from all the coast section north of Charleston. Large stalks from Virginia and New Jersey bring as much as 40 cerbis a bunch. The first few small bunches of tender shoots from Oyster Bay, Long Island, sold quickly on Saturday for 75 cents each. Boston hothouse cucumbers maintain the price of the past three months, the best selling for 15 cents each. Mushrooms are now plentiful at 50 cents a quart. Hothouse tomatoes sell at 40 cents a pound, a higher price than they would bring so late in the season, but for the small supply of first-class tomatoes from Southern gardens. The latest addition to the large variety of new crop vegetables from the South are turnips from North Carolina, and fat and crook-neck squashes from Northern Alabama. Large and fully ripened Florida tomatoes are 25 cents a quart, and a poorer quality may be had at 10 cents for a box supposed to contain that quantity. A choice quality of string beans of the green and fancy wax varieties, brought through on experse trains, are altogether superior to t In the Old World there are larger cities, but their people do not eat any-thing like the amount of fruit that we in the warehouses for three and four months of our summer weather, and some of them held over in cold storage since last spring are still in sound con-dition. The five hundred and odd sacks of 112 pounds, already sold, brought 33,25 apiece. As meny as 5000 sacks will arrive during this week, so that this high price is but temporary.

Future of the Orange.

(Florida Agriculturist:) One thing s practically settled. There is no orange equals in quality he finer varieties of oranges grown in Florida. Another thing is settled, there is none so accessible to the mar-

Florada. Another thing is settled, there is none so accessible to the markets of the United States as the oranges grown in Florida. What is needed is such a cheapening of production, preparing for market, transportation, cost of selling, etc., that the orange shall no longer be considered a luxury, but as much of a necessity as the apple or any other fruit. It should be so common that every second-class boarding-house would have them on the table, and every mechanic and laboring man can eat them as freely as he does any other fruit. To do this, the cost of growing must be materially reduced, to begin with, This can be done by using all the facalities nature has provided for cheap fertillizing, and by this we mean, the making available everything grown or that can be grown, or can be gathered from muck ponds in enriching the soil, and thereby reducing the amount of commercial fertilizer used. In increasing animal manures, by keeping all the horses, cows, hogs and chickens that can be fed from the products of the land, either in the groves or out of them. By reducing to minimum cost the gathering or marketing of the fruit. of them. By reducing to minimum cost the gathering or marketing of the fruit.

By such organization of orange grow-By such organization of orange growers as to compel the transportation companies to transport the fruit as cheap approximately as they do other and grosser productions of the soil. There is no reason why a carload of oranges should not be returned to Northern markets in the cars that bring potatoes, flour, meats, etc., at the same prices that those articles are prought to us. brought to us.

Bulk shipments have been commenced the past season with reasonable success, and will no doubt be more general in the future.

A profit can be made in growing oranges at 50 cents a box on the trees, and with the increased production, in the near future, the orange-grower will have to make up his mind to be content to sell his crop on the trees at that figure. This will not include fancy prices for choice varieties of fruit, nor growers of reputation getting two and three times that figure. Furthermore we think that the time is not far distant when the manufacture of marmalades, consumed in this country, will be transferred from England to Florida towns, and all the inferior fruit, will be disposed of here and not sent North to demoralize the market.

Florida Orange Growing. Mr. F. C. M. Boggess of Fort Ogden

Florida, writing to the Florida farmer, says:

Florida, writing to the Florida Farmer, says:

"The orange crop for the season is a thing of the past. The transportation companies got the lion's share. What with the commission men, paying for crate material, cost of putting up, the grower's share was trifling.

"It was an impossibility for the orange growers of Florida to compate with Mexico, Sicily and other places, as there the trees grow spontaneously like saw palmetto, with but little attention or cultivation. They ship mostly in bulk and the cost of gathering is trifling, as the ones that gather and handle do it for 12½ cents per day, and can live on three bananas, a cup of coffee and a pack of cigarettes. Here we have to pay at least $1.25 per day, for our people could not live and support a family on the wages paid for handling foreign oranges.

"I as one of the growers, have no interest in the welfare of the Dago who handles the foreign oranges. I am a native man and believe in America all the time.

"That expensive attachment to the shipping of oranges must be abandoned, to wit: Crate material, which is an expensive humbug. Ship in bulk car lots, if you ship, but better not ship. Sell at home; no fear of buyers not coming.

"In the beginning of the orange season this country is full of men wanting consignments. If you do not let them flatter you into giving your oranges away, there will come buyers.

"In conclusion let me say, gather up and destroy all your orange stencils and never ship another crate. Join an association and stick."

Both Sides of an Unsettled Question (California Fruit Grower:) A num-ber of complaints have reached us regarding what are alleged to be the unbusiness-like methods of the Southern California Fruit Exchanges. reputable and responsible gentleman of reputable and responsible gentleman of this city informs us that after having been solicited by the Exchange management to order fruit, he did so to the extent of 15 or 20 carloads. But his order was not noticed in any way, and he never received the fruit. Another complaint of a serious nature comes from St. Louis. We give the matter as nearly as possible in the other complaint of a serious nature comes from St. Louis. We give the matter as nearly as possible in the words of Mr. Gerber of the Gerber Fruit Company who made the statements recently in this office:

On March 14 the Gerber Fruit Co. of St. Louis, Mo., gave an order to J. T. Parmelee, agent for Southern California Fruit Exchanges for 5 cars to be delivered in 20 days. The order was not placed for future delivery, but the time named as a period during was not placed for future delivery, but the time named as a period during which the Exchange could ship the fruit, thinking they might not be able to fill the order at once. The price was $1.15 per box f. o. b. Durate. Mr. Gerber claims that he did not renot be shipped, and the Exchange circulars of that date announce: "We do not confirm orders by wire, only by mail, but will telegraph you if we are able to fill; therefore, if you do not receive reply to direct orders, you can take it for granted that same will be filled within a reasonable time, say from two to four days." be filled within a reasonable time, say from two to four days."

He supposed he would receive the fruit. But after waiting ten days or more, he began to make inquiry regarding the matter. At last, on about April 1, he came to California to look the matter up. Mr. Gerber claims that he could not get any satisfastion from the Exchange people, and had to purchase fruit for his trade, paying $1.85 for Seedlings in April, claiming a loss of about $800 on the transaction. Also that he was informed by the management that the Exchange had no assets and it would therefore be of no use to sue for his claim.

The above is the case as presented by the St. Louis people; but of course in a controversy of so serious a nature both sides should be herd; we therefore take pleasure in presenting the Exchange version of the unfortunate controversy;

After a full explanation on our part he left, saying that he would write us so that we could have his letter to place before our Executive Board at their meeting on the following Wednesday. Your letter is the first that we have heard from him since that time. I believe, as I always have, that with care and attention to details we can raise hens with profit, and it is with this belief that, a few weeks ago, I built another small place in which to hatch chickens and to keep them in, for a few months. As my next-door neighbor was so pleased with my arrangement that he has just built a similar and somewhat more extensive place, and as others have said they intend to do likewise, I will describe it.

The collar is the most important part of the harness, and should be as carefully adjusted to the neck and shoulders of the horses as boots and shoes are to human feet. Farmers and team sters often carelessly change collars from one horse to another without taking up or letting out the adjustable portions of the same, yet one horse may have a thick, heavy neck, and the other a thin one. The heavy draft will not fit the collar to the neck with out doing harm. The harness should also be fitted so that the line of draft or pressure will come squarely upon the shoulder blade, and not so low that the top of the collar will tip forward in pulling.

Sheep Disease.

Cephas L. Bard, M.D., of Ventura has issued in pamphlet form a paper which he read before the State Saniwhich he read before the State Sanitary Convention at San Jose in April last on the ravages of the bacillus anthracis of California. This is a parasite which attacks sheep, and, according to Dr. Bard, has done much damage in Southern California. It appears that southern Canfornia. It appears that this disease is sometimes acquired by men who come in close contact with sheep when they are suffering from it. In regard to the best method of combating this disease Dr. Bard writes as "In our own State a law was framed

"In our own State a law was framed by our Legislature on March 16, 1889, authorizing the Supervisors of the different counties to appoint, if so requested to do, by a petition of not less than fifty names, a sheep commissioner whose duties were to be defined and determined by said Supervisors. Reference to the ordinances and transactions of the several counties in the infected district show no appointment at any time of any such official. The stock-owner can do much for himself and charge unaided by the agency of the law. Drainage and cultivation of the range will materially diminish the chance of its contamination. It can be stocked with Algerine sheep and some other varieties which are immune. We have no knowledge of any brand of cattle or horses, however, for which the backlive anthread is not pathogenic. nave no knowledge of any brand of cat-tle or horses, however, for which the bacillus anthracis is not pathogenic. He can protect his flock from importa-tion of infected stock. In the event of an outbreak, by leaving his range and keeping his animals in motion, he can manage to save the bulk of them. As the disease is only communicable by the inhibition of the bacillus or spore, the moving herd is comparatively safe, as the cause exists only in the disease; and servers and servers. charges and carcasses which remain behind to infect others which may graze on the abandoned pasture. The only effectual method of preventing future on the abandoned pasture. The only effectual method of preventing future contamination consists in the destruction of the carcasses of those which have succumbed to the disease. This can be done by burning them or burying them deeply in the soil. Owing to the prevailing scarcity of fuel, especially on our treeless plains, the first method is not very practicable. Owing to the disinclination of the herder the second is never fully accomplished, the body usually being deposited just beneath the sod. Burial at the depth of six feet it quite effectual. While sporulation may occur in surface soil at any temperature between 59 deg. and 110 deg. Fahr., it cannot exist in a carcass covered by six or eight feet of earth, where the perpetuation of the infection is only preserved by a continuous generation of the bacillus. Pasteur's theory that the common earthworm may carry the bacilli to the surface, where sporulation would quickly ensue, does—not detract from the efficacy of this method of disposal of the carcass, for it hasbeen lately shown that it is not tenable, and furthermore earth-worms do not exist in any great numbers in California. In Siberia, earth-worms do not exist in any great numbers in California. In Siberia, where spients fever is enzootic and where, on account of its ravaes, it is called the Siberian plague, great reliance is placed in deep burial as a preventive measure, and during the frequent outbreaks large numbers of soldiers are detailed to carry out this sanitary provision."

The amount of care necessary to raise turkeys depends largely upon the climate. In central Kentucky, where they grow in a wild state, they are as easy to raise as the ordinary chickens. It is quite a common pracenough to fly, to shoot them on the wing and use their young bodies for making "turkey hash," which, with "beaten biscuit," is a favorite Southern dish. While young turkeys grow with little care in a climate congental to them, yet they need careful handling in colder parts of the country. The young must be kept confined until the dew is off the grass, and seem to require much range.

(Chas. P. Nettleton in Pacific Rural Press:) Although at the present time

more extensive place, and as others have said they intend to do likewise, I will describe it.

I first built a platform 30 feet long by 18 inches wide, using some boards I had on hand. At the back I put two 6-inch boards on edge, nailing them to the posts of a fence to support the roof, which was, made of a quantity of pear-box covers, short pieces 1x2 inches even used, and a strip 1x2 inches was nailed along the top. I divided the platform into eight small divisions, which gave a space about 3 feet 9 inches by 18 inches for each drove of chickens. Doors were made for each division out of pear-box covers, and a pane of glass 8x10 inches was inserted in each door. I then bought two rolls of wire netting, one of 1-inch netting 2 feet wide (for the bottom) and one 2-inch mesh 3 feet wide. Part of this I cut into strips 8 feet long, for the division between the runs. Seven-foot posts set 1½ feet in the ground, 8 feet from the platform, supplied the needed support for a top piece Ix4 inches running from these posts to similar ones close to the platform, and a 6-inch strip was put on the ground, to nail the netting to.

On top of these 1x4 cross pieces I

On top of these 1x4 cross pieces I put a strip 1x3, to strengthen the whole, and a similar piece at the rear of the posts. From this piece to that in front of the "houses" I nailed laths front of the "houses" I nailed laths 2½ inches apart, to prevent the hens from flying out. Doors to the runs (which also, of course, had a 6-inch board in front to correspond to the 6-inch board between the divisions) I made of strips 1x2 inches, braced with a similar plece, and covered with netting. Small steel hinges allowed the door to swing. On top of the runs made of strips 1x2 inches, braced with a similar plece, and covered with netting. Small steel hinges allowed the door to swing. On top of the runs I stretched what remained of the netting and finished with laths. This was done because, although the tops of the fences were 5½ feet from the ground, former experience has proved to me that the hens would fly over. As it is now, no hen or chicken can get out, and no rat or cat can get in.

When all was ready I put two boxes in each little house, just large enough to take a setting hen comfortably, and I placed my hens there, with one dozen eggs each. More than 12 eggs to the hen I do not approve of. My first intention was to have but one hen sit in each place, but I thought I would try two. As it proved, they gave me very little trouble. When they came off, of course I doubled them up, giving all the chickens hatched by the two hens to one.

Both houses and runs are a little

Both houses and runs are a little small. I should advise that they be made larger by any one who should adopt the general idea.

As a protection from the hot sun I have exact two supply sakes together.

and I can assure any man that on a hot day these make a very-much-needed protection.

Let me add a few general notes. For drinking and feed cups, for setting hens, I use two tin cans, such as fruit is put up in for sale, fastening them together with a little frame made of four strips of wood; one can is for water, the other is for feed. The advantage of having them fastened together is that they are not so easily overturned.

For the chickens' water cups I use large tin cans, cut off about 2½ inches from the bottom, with a smaller can just inside, the inner can being filled with sand. By the arrangement they cannot defile the water nor get into it, and, as a matter of fact, it serves the purpose perfectly, just as well as a 75-cent drinking fountain.

Buhach will not kill the larger of the parasites which live on the heads of chickens. Use warm grease, putting three or four drops on the head and neck, not more than that, or it will hurt the chickens.

For the first two days after chickens are hatched, rolled soda crackers, with a little find sand mixed in, are excellent. They need something to assist in grinding up the food at that early

I should have said that that long platform I built rests on common redwood posts laid flat on the ground, and the front is boarded up so that they cannot run underneath.

Care of Little Chickens.

(H. B. Geer in Southern Cultivator.) -In caring for little chickens, we prefer earth-worms do not exist in any great numbers in California. In Siberia, where splenic fever is enzootic and where splenic fever is enzootic and we are raising all our chicks this where account of its rayages, it is twenty-five chickens, and costs but one dollar, and can be made in an hour or two.

We let the chicks stay with the hen until fully twenty-four hours old, and then put them in the brooder. Frequently we reset the hen on freeh eggs, especially if it be early in the season and sitters scarce.

We feed the little chickens on hardboiled eggs and oat meal from the start, and give them plenty of water. The main thing is to feed often, but feed only a little at a time. The chickens need sand and small gravel from the start, and it is well to crumble their feed on a sanded surface. The sand helps digestion.

The top of the brooder can easily be made to shed water so that it may be set out of doors without endangering the chickens in wet weather.

When the chickens get too large for the brooder, we scatter larger coops about through the orchard for them to roost in, and we make it a point to try and have them roost under shelter all summer instead of taking to the trees, as they are disposed to do.

Sunflower Seeds for Poultry. (Poultry and Stock Review:) Sun-flower seeds are not to be recommended for poultry, except as an occasional feed, in small quantities. Fowl are usually very fond of them and greedy for them, but they contain too much oil. They are heating and fattening, and are used by poultry-fanciers who desire to fit up birds for exhibiton in the show ring. A few of them every day for a few weeks, along with other grain, gives a bright, glossy plumage, and that indescribable softness of feeling that is usually connected with the idea of a fat bird or animal, but they do not stimulate erg production or do not stimulate egg production or improve the quality of eggs laid white they have been given. A good time to feed them is at or just after moulting time, when there is an extra drain upon "he, avatem in forming the feathers." the system in forming the feathers, and getting ready another litter of eggs to be laid later on. Do not fall, however, to give plenty of other grain at the same time.

The most favored type of Jersey co at present weighs about nine hundred pounds, is wedge shaped, with small ewe neck, rather level along the back, and high rump. She should be deep through the flank and have a goodsized udder, coming well up behind and extending well forward along the belly, with four good-sized teats standing well apart. The most fashionable colors are without any white marking These are all more or less superficial points. If you want a good Jersey you must weigh the milk and test it for butter fat.

Care and Treatment of Jersey Cattle. (Prize Essay, by Mrs. Ella Rock-wood, in Southern Cultivator:) Perhaps no breed of cattle possesses in a greater degree susceptibility to treatment, kind or unkind, than to treatment, kind or unkind, than the Jersey. The peculiar nervous temperament so essential in a perfect dairy cow, is one of her strongest characteristics.

Look at the bright, intelligent face of a true specimen of this breed, and note the large fawn-like eyes, bright and glistening. Look at the thin, dilating nostrils, with their orange liming, which seem to seent danger like a deer, and seeing, know that this queen among cows demands and well deserves the most careful handling and kindest treatment to bring out her good qualities and keep them at their best.

kindest treatment to bring out her good qualities and keep them at their best.

No cow, from the scrub to the thoroughbred, can do her best unless under circumstances conducive to quiet and content; and although cows of a more sluggish temperament bear ill usage with little apparent regard, it is not so with the sensitive Jersey, and she soon depreciates in value.

From calfhood she should have reason to regard her master as her friend. No blows or harsh words should expect and receive only caresses and kind words. Under such treatment she will develop a gentile, kind disposition.

She should be taught to lead by a halter, to stand quietly as for milking, and to bear handling of the udder long before she reaches maturity, so that she may be quiet and easily handled instead of being wild and unmanageable, as heifers often are at that time. No breaking in will be necessary, and if it is desirable to dispose of her, she will bring a better price than one that has never been trained.

Do not make the mistake of thinking Do not make the mistake of thinking trained.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that when she drops her first calf is time enough to begin feeding her; she should have been fed from her birth with this in view.

No supplemental food is better than ground oats as a help in developing the heifer calf. As soon as she begins to eat hay she should have a little, night and morning, fed dry. Begin with half a pint of feed, or even less, and gradually increase the quantity until bossie will take a pint at a feeding. Keep her thrifty and growing. A calf once stunted by insufficient or improper food will never make so good a cow as she would otherwise have been. The grain ration should be increased as the heifer grows, and at the arrival of the milking period she should, after the first few days, be given a generous quantity of such food as is best suited to assist her in producing milk.

While there are various grain foods recommended by dairymen as excellent for mitch cows, for the general feeder and the average cow nothing is better than a mixture of one part corn meal, one part oatmeal and two parts wheat bran. Of this, feed as much as, after experimenting with your cow, you find gives best results in milk and butter.

bran. Of this, feed as much as, after experimenting with your cow, you find gives best results in milk and butter. Each cow is a law unto herself as to the amount of food she can profitably consume. It takes more to produce a like result with one than another. Up to the extent of her capacity, the greater the amount consumed, the greater the returns at the pail and churn; but when a cow is fed beyond her capacity to convert the

the year what a single test of her milk may lack.

Not all of us can have cows making a thousand pounds of butter in a year; but any one owning a single Jersey cow may, with judicious breeding and careful feeding, combined with the kind treatment and care which all animals should have, in a' few years possess a herd of cattle which will be a source of profit as well as pleasure.

Practical Hints for Factory and Dairy (George E. Newell in American Culti-vator:) A careless cheese or but ter maker has more trouble in securing good milk from his dairy patrons than does the maker who observes all that he exacts.

patrons than does the maker who observes all that he exacts.

We often hear makers say, "Some of my patrons are so slovenly that I am tired of reprimanding them and accept their dirty milk as a matter of course." But is this indefference to dairy cleaniness wholly the fault of these occasional dairy men? I am quite sure that it is not. Milk producers, though they may not know much about factory cheese or butter making, have their ideas on the subject and are just as much influenced by what they see of the maker's work as by his admonitions to them.

It is useless for him to talk cleanliness to them when they daily behold an untidy factory. "What good will it do," they argue, "to strain our milk and keep filth out of it when the maker is not particular about keeping his factory clean, and more or less dir must find its way into the cheese thereby?"

Every dairy man who is blessed with common vision knows whether his cheese maker is a tidy man or not, and as above stated is often influenced accordingly. I would advise makers this spring to make their factory and the whey vat as "clean as a whistle" before they broach the subject of milk cleanliness to negligent patrons. Reform beginning at home will net the biggest results.

Now, just at the beginning of the milk-manufacturing season, it is important that dairy men should start out aright on the subject of milk care, or they may go wrong all summer.

Where milk is kept over night on the farm, being intended for the factory, the old idea is to accumulate it in larger bulk at animal heat, and then cool it off according to the judgment or convenience of the producer.

The new and more intelligent idea is to cool and aerate it before it is placed in bulk. By the former method, which still unfortunately largely prevails, the quality of milk is seldom preserved, because more difficulty being in the way of cooling and aerating it, sufficient labor is not enforced to accomplish the end.

Milk on the farm should be cooled down to 70 degrees at the highest before it is ever poured into the delivery can to stand till morning. It is usually strained into the can at 98 degrees and the few stirrings that the mass afterwards, gets aided by the temperature of the air, will not reduce it to 70 degrees for hours. During this time, being excluded from quick aeration remember, and aided by imprisoned heat, unnatural fermentations occur that mar the lacteal quality beyond reclaim.

These derogatory charges are not confined to the warm weather season alone, for I have known them to occur in the middle of winter where hot unaerated milk was left in bulk.

In the name of good cheese and butter making, I would also ask dairy men to instruct their hired men not to "drive like Jehu" in carrying milk to the factory. The continual sloshing that it gets over the rough roads in this way, in a measure, percipitates the butter fat on the same principal (conclusion) that chur butter fat afterward goes into the whey.

Nearily every dairy man who has long patronized a factory possesses ofte or more old unused delivery cans that are unfit to carry milk in. If you are a dairy man patronizing a factory, and want to help your own interests along, take one of these old cans with you when you deliver milk to carry oack the sour whey or sour milk in. Milk cans that are used for swill are always suspicious, and it is getting so that in order to be successful along dairy lines we must keep everything above suspicion. everything above suspicion.

The various sections of the country show differing developments of farm tenure. The North Atlantic States, fewer yeomanry, showing an increase of nearly ten thousand in numbers of tenant farms, or nearly 9 per cent., but here the gain was largely in those who farm on shares.. In the other groups of States, the increased numper of farms is about equally divided between yeomen and tenants; but the everywhere much greater, and far more

California Bean Growing.

California Bean Growing.

Mr. J. S. Harkey recently gave in the Venturian some figures covering the cost of producing beans on a large scale in Ventura county. He makes the cost of tools, labor, seed and sacks for 80 acres of beans $1,068, and places the average yield at 1,500 pounds per acre. The average price he gives at 2½ cents, or say $37.50 per acre gross. This would give something like $2000 as the proceeds above actual cost of prduction, except that the tools whose cost is included would of course last a number of years. Mr. Harkey did not, as we understand, count the interest on cost of land and improvements, nor does he apparently pay out anything for fertilizers. Of course in arriving at fairly exact results these things should be taken into account. If bean land is worth $200 per acre as alleged, an item of at least $12 per acre should be charged to that account; so that taking it altogether, with land at even a high price, bean farming may be counted perhaps as lucrative as most other occupations, except those of county and township officials, or leaders in the Industrial Army.

PASADENA, May 25.—(Special Correspondence.) William E. Welle, who came to Pasadena about a year ago from Oakland in the hope of benefiting his health, was found dead in bed Friday morning at his room in the B. Brockway Block, on East Colorado

Mr. Harrison, who lets the rooms Mr. Harrison, who lets the rooms in the block referred to, went to Welle's room about 9 o'clock and found the young man dead. No change for the worse had been noticed in his condition the previous day, and in his condition the previous day, and he retired after eating quite a hearty supper. Coroner Cates was summoned from Los Angeles, and a jury of nine citizens was called together at Reynolds & Van Nuy's undertaking rooms and rendered a verdict to the effect that death had resulted from natural causes. The deceased was 24 years of age rnd was well liked by those who knew him. The remains will be sent to Oakland for interment.

PAVING PROJECTS.

It is probable that Contractor J. A. Fairchild will resume paving operations in Paradena some time soon. All but one or two property-owners on Fair Oaks avenue, between Colorado and Union streets, have signed a petition for a pavement, and a majority of the owners on the same thoroughfare, between Colorado and Kausas streets, have also signed up. On Raymond avenue the contract is already let for the block between Kansas and Vineyard streets, as well as for the wide roadway between Hotel Green and the Santa Fe track, while the property-owners on Raymonu, between Kansas and Colorado streets, are practically unanimous in favor of paying. The chances are that at least four blocks will be paved during the summer. ions in Paradena some time soon

SANTA MONICA, May 25.—(Special Correspondence.) It is understood that the Street Committee of the Board of Trustees, have arrived at an agreement with Thomas Thompson, the contractor, with regard to the changes in plans for the Seventh-street bridge over the reliped Thomas Thompson, the contractor, with regard to the changes in plans for the Reventh-street bridge over the railroad track. It was concluded by the committee that the plans contemplated a bridge that would not be adequate to the demands. The prescnit committee, in fact, objects to narrow roadways upon new construction, and the Seventh-street roadway will be thirty feet wide, with side-walks outside of that. It will vastly improve the improvement to build it in this way, and the structure will be ready for public use within a few weeks now.

Cattle Thief Receives an Appropriate Sentence.

The Board of Education Makes a Heavy Cut in Teachers' Salaries, Which Causes Some Dissatisfaction-Notes and Brevitles.

SANTA ANA, May 25.—(Special Correspondence.) Felix Ward was today sentenced to two years in the State's Prison at Folsom for cattle stealing. For the past two years the farmers of this county have been annoyed by frequent loss from their herds, but all efforts to apprehend the thieves seemed, for some time, of no avail. The officers, however, were persistent in their work of ferreting out the depredators, and finally succeeded in obtaining sufficient evidence to justify the arrest of Ward for stealing a cow belonging to C. F. Parker out of the pasture of A. E. Hawley on the night of January 21, 1884. Ward was tried by a jury several weeks ago and found guilty. Today sentence was pronounced upon him, and he will be given an opportunity to repent of the evil of his ways at his leisure during the next two years, but it is not likely, from the evidence at hand, that another trial will save the young man from serving time in the State's Frison. He is now in the County Jail awalting commitment.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The City Board of Education held a special session Thursday evening in the City Hall, at which a site for a new achoolhouse was purchased, and the salaries of the teachers from the superintendent to the primary instructors were reduced. The property purchased for a schoolhouse site is located on First street, southeast of its intersection with French street. It is 225 feet by 300 feet, and the purchase price is $2500.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for plans and specifications for a four-room, school building, two of the rooms only to be constructed at the present time, the other two to be added later on when the crowded condition of the school would require them.

The matter of the reduction of salaries of the teachers was then taken up and discussed briefly, yet vigorously. There seemed to be almost a unanimity of opinion among the members of the board, that inasmuch as they had lost $500 from the State this year on account of the decrease of census children in the city, it would be absolutely accessary for them to make a reduction in the expense of running the school in some way. They finally concluded that about the only way for them to do was to make a reduction in the salaries of the teachers, which they then proceeded to do with the following result: Prof. Perham, superintendent, reduced from $100 per month to $90 per month; Miss Aldrich, High-school teacher, reduced from $100 per month to $90 per month; Miss Aldrich, High-school teacher, reduced from $100 per month to $90 per month; Miss Connell, primary teachers, reduced from $100 per month to $90 per month; Miss Connell, primary teachers, reduced from $100 per month to $90 per month to a feet the reduction will breast every the seed and Sa

SANTA BARBARA, May 24.—(Special Correspondence.) Mr. Vandeleere of Carpinteria appeared in Justice Gammill's court this morning, bringing with him a black eye, an alleged broken rib, and a long tale of woe. He claims that one James Daily, a neighbor, had taken a chair belonging to him, and that he called on him and asked him for it; that Daily jumped on him, knocked him down, blacked his eye, broke his rib and otherwise added to his discomfort, and disturbed his peace. He had Daily arrested on a charge of battery, and on appearing in court that person pleaded that he had been once in jeopardy, having been before Justice Smith of Carpinteria and paid a fine of $3 for assault Justice Gammill, however, held that having paid a fine for assault did not release him from a charge of battery, and he will be prosecuted for the same.

Fifth Anniversary Celebration

Meeting of the Directors of the Twenty eighth District Agricultural Association at Colton-Notes and Personals.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 25.—(Special Correspondence.) The fifth anniversary of the Epworth League was observed in this city yesterday by an all-day session at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, at which there were some excellent exercises. Dr. Edwin A. Schell of Chicago, the general secretary of the Epworth League, was present and took a prominent part. There were present a number of leaguers from neighboring places in this and Riverside counties. The address of welcome by H. H. Baker was responded to by Rev. W. A. Wright of Riverside, and Dr. Schell. After several short papers were read, a basket lunch was served in the church.

There were a number of good addresses during the day and evening, and the music was exceptionally good. Hugh E. Smith of Los Angeles, had charge of the music, and will remain in the city for a week, conducting that part of the programme for a series of revival meetings to be held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, beginning this evening. The address of General Secretary Schell in the evening had many good points in it. He said that the mistake is made in the work of converting the world to Christ by beginning wrong. The church was crowded in the evening. Anumber of visitors from other cities and towns remaining to attend the session.

At the meeting of the Improvement Association held on Saturday evening, the various superintendents are expected to present written reports of what has been done upon their respective streets, and especially what remains undone which the owners of adjacent property will not improve. At the last meeting the road question was discussed, especially as to the building of a boulevard to the summit of some one of the footbills mear the city, from which a fine view of the valley may be obtained. There are several of these hills within easy reach of San Bernardino if good drives could be built to their summits.

GOLTON, May Z.—(Special Correspondence.) The directors of the Twenty-eighth District Agricultural Association had a meeting here yesterday afternoon to make further arrangements respecting the agricultural fair, five of the seven members being present. It was found that through an error of the secretary of the Southern California Racing Association, in mailing to San Bernardino instead of Colton the letter of inquiry respecting the admission of San Bernardino instead of Colton the letter of inquiry respecting the admission of San Bernardino into the circuit, the dates were made without this district being included. It was found, therefore, that in order to get in with the races, the fair would have to be held very early—before the opening of the racking season in the northern part. If held early the best horses would not come and do much racing, for if they should do so and make records, the horses would be barred from the northern races and larger stakes. If the fair should be postponed until after the rest of the circuit is completed, the horses and horse men would be tired out, and would take but little interest, and larger stakes would have to be offered than the society can afford to get them at all. Furthermore, the races are what got the society into debt, and, as the directors themselves are individually responsible for all indebtedness incurred, they are-very anxious to debt and stopping interest.

It was therefore decided to hold the fair early, and the date was fixed at July 31, and August 1 and 2. The Colton Pavillon Company offered to cancel one year's rent for the payment of ome year's rentitat is, for $500, the company receipted for $1000, or two years' rent. The Colton people also offered to decorate the pavillon and to a number of extra things. The shelving, tables, etc., belonging to the Agricultural Society, are at Colton, so the offer of the Colton citizens is equivalent to about $750, and the association was announced some weeks ago, no move the agricultural society and the reason to make p

The Young Republicans Effect an Organization—Political Gossip.

RIVERSIDE, May 25.—(Special Correspondence.) The Young Men's Republican Club perfected its organization last night, and a lively but very orderly time was shad. It was especially interesting in the selection of a president of the club. H. T. Hays, B. B. Stanton and W. W. Phelps were first put, in nomination. Balloting for these three continued for some time, and, not being able to make a choice with these in the field, Miguel Estudillo was placed in nomination. Though he asked to withdraw his name, balloting proceeded, and he came near the majority vote when A. A. Caldwell was nominated. Still the half hundred enthusiastic young Republicans were unable to make a selection until nearly 10 o'clock, when H. T. Hays was chosen. The competition for the rest of the offices was not so great, and they were filled in short order, with the following men: W. W. Phelps, first vice-president; Miguel Estudillo, second vice-president; Miguel Estudillo, second vice-president; Miguel Estudillo, second vice-president; L. W. Allum, secretary; H. W. Bordwell, treasurer.

A number of addresses were made, and the outlook was shown to be very bright for the party.

Political affairs are beginning to wazm up in this section, and they are not all local affairs either. William S. Barnes of San Francisco, who has the gubernatorial bee in his bonnet, has been in the city looking after fences. Prof. Hugh J. Baldwin of Coronado, prominently mentioned as a candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction has been lands has been busy chasing the State printership nomination, and seems confident of catching it.

The meeting of the Riverside Fruit Exchange for the election of directors for the ensuing year will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Hall at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

On Sunday afterfonon John L. Spears, State secretary of the Y.M.C.A., will address the young men upon a special topic.

The Paper Read by Vice-President Maude o Riverside. SAN FRANKISCO, May 24.—(Special Correspondence.) J. L. Maude of Riv-erside, vice-president of the road con-vention and one of the principal movers in the proposition to secure a simpler and more effective road law, read the principal paper of the conven-tion. The subject of this paper was ers in the proposition to secure and more effective road law, read the principal paper of the convention. The subject of this paper was "The Expenditure of Public Funds on Public Highways." He said that the road laws are in such a chaotic state as to be aimost unintelligible, even to a lawyer, and a codification committee would be required to take several months to disentangle them. A partial codification of the road laws was made in 1884, and the statutes of 1891 and 1893 contain additional matter. But the laws are so ambiguous as to serve but poorly the end for which they were created.

As to when and in whom is vested the control and expenditure of the public funds, he found one word and one law. "The word is 'supervisor,' and the law 'their will!" "The amounts to be collected for road purposes are fixed by the supervisors, and the supervisors are exofficio road commissioners for their respective districts, directing what moneys shall be expended and upon what roads. As the commissioners or supervisors usually desire to be re-elected to the same position, there is a temperation to spend the funds where they will secure the most votes. All supervisors are not above being influenced by this temptation. And as these road commissioners sit as a board of supervisors, to audit the bills for expenditures authorized by them, there is no recourse.

The fault with this system lies in the fact that each supervisor, however honest and able as such, is not a suitable person to superintend road construction. Though able business men, very few are are competent road engineers. Few would be fit to act as a superior judge or county physicias. They are not better prepared to act as road engineers. Reference was made to the roads of other nations, ancient and modern, in which substantial workmanship of their builders. The Appian Way of the Roman empire has withstood twenty centuries of use. The roads of the Aztecs and Ineas made to the roads of their builders. The Appian way of the Roman empire has withstood twenty centuries o of competent engineers, but in two places simply states that engineers "may" be employed.

Mr. Maude advocated a general supervision of the roads by the county supervision of the roads by the county supervision of the roads should be under competent engineers and road inspectors, the latter appointed by the engineers and confirmed by the supervisors, should have charge of certain sections of road, and have power to arrest violators of the road laws. They should have control of their respective sections in a manner similar to section-houses on railroads, and make regular reports. The engineer should be directly responsible to the supervisors and should be the advisor of the board in road matters. When large expenditures of money are required, the engineer should have authority to employ special advisors work demanding an expenditure to exceed $100 should be done by contract to the lowest bidder. The engineers should keep a complete set of books and make quarterly reports to the supervisors. Complete surveys of all roads should be made, and a perfect title to the road secured. The notes of surveys should be open to the inspection of the public and maps of all roads kept on file. The whole work of the road-building should be systematized.

ONLY A SMALL LEAK.

Exaggerated Reports of Outfall Sewer Defects.

Attempt to Magnify a Trivial Matter Inte gation Revealed Yes-

A sensational report was circulated yesterday to the effect that the outfall sewer had burst the day before at a point about one and one-fourth miles beyond the settling chamber at Agricultural Park and that some two hundred feet or more of the wood pipe section was virtually wrecked.

Councilmen Munson and Strohm of the Sewer Committee, together with newspaper men, visited the scene of newspaper men, visited the scene of the reported leak yesterday morning and found it to be in the middle of an alfalfa patch belonging to William Holland. Instead of a considerable surface of ground flooded with; water and a quagmire extending for several hundred feet, there was found a hole in the ground about two feet wide and the same depth. The hole was partially filled with water; and a solitary frog was paddling about in the liquid. For a distance of three or four feet on one side of the hole the ground was so wet that a man's foot might sink a few inches into it. For some twenty feet or so from the hole the ground, in spots, appeared to be rather more moist than other parts of the field.

It was stated, however, that a good ground, in spots, appeared to be rather more moist than other parts of the field.

It was stated, however, that a good deal more water was coming from the hole a day or two before, when there was a heavier pressure on the wood siphon.

The pressure on the pipe at the point where the leak was yesterday was about seven pounds per square inch, the level of the water being even with the lower end of the pressure pipe at Hyde Park. A day or two before, the value at the lower end was closed and the water backed up toward the upper end, increasing the pressure to somewhere from fifteen to sevenuen pounds per square inch.

Mr. Vincent, the superintendent of construction on the outfall, states that if the leak had been as large as one's little finger under the heavy pressure the whole alfalfa field would have been almost flooded. It is more than probable, he says, that if the ground were to be excavated over the leak it would be very difficult, if not impossible, to find where the leak really is, it would be found so small.

On the further wood pipe section near inglewood he states there have been nearly forty leaks, some less and some greater than this one. The leaks would not occur all at once, but two or three at a time. They would gradually grow less, and in time disappear. In one instance, where there was a leak fully twenty times as bad as that examined yesterday, the earth was excavated and the trouble was found to have resulted from a slight imperfection in the milling of one of the staves, and the defective place was repaired by driving in a very thin wedge.

Inasmuch as the wood pipe section extending from the settling chamber repaired by driving in wedge.

Inasmuch as the wood pipe section extending from the settling chamber to Hyde Park is nearly five mies in length and only a few leaks, of which the one examined yesterday was the worst, have been found, the way in which the pipe has withstood the heavy pressure it has undergone appears to be an excellent showing for the pipe.

pears to be an excellent showing for the pipe. Engineer Vincent says the leak will undoubtedly grow less and less as it fills with sediment, and will, in time,

THE EAST SIDE.

A Long-standing Church Difficulty About to Be Settled,

After nearly a year spent in wrangtional Church row appears to be fair way to be amicably settled. At meeting held on Thursday night a petition was presented by the anti-deacon faction asking that the dispute be tition was presented by the anti-deacon faction asking that the dispute be referred to a council of clergymen from the association of this district for final settlement. The deacon and his supporters accepted the proposition unanimously, and a council will be called as soon as the necessary forms can be compiled with. This will probably take about six weeks, after which time it will be definitely known whether the church is to be permanently-closed, or a new pastor called to the pulpit.
The church is in good condition financially, being entirely free of debt and the buildings in good repair; but socially the organization is almost defunct, there having been no pastor nor any regular services, aside from Sunday-school and prayer-meeting, for a number of months. Many of the members have withdrawn in disgust and united with other denominations.

The horse and buggy which the police have had in charge for several days past has been claimed by the owner, Dr. A. O. Conrad of Tropico.
The doctor, it seems, was in town on Wednesday, and left his rig tied on a side street over in the city. Becoming frightened at some unusual noise, the horse broke his bridle and started for home, being captured by a Mexican out on the San Fernando road. Fortunately nothing was injured save the bridle, but the doctor had a pretty chase all over the valley, and back through the city before he thought of applying to the police.

Out at the park things are thriving at a great rate these days. Lawns, trees, shrubs and flowers are all in first-class condition, and the men are now busy setting young border plants along the various walks and drives. An increased supply of benches greatly improves the park as a resort, and the four boats are kept busy most of the time, the lake being a great drawing card for the young people. Plans for a new boathouse are being considered, and it is possible that some extra boats will be put on the lake this season.

The hothouses are a wonder of themselves, and any one having the least interest in flowers or in botany as a study would be repaid many times for their trouble in visiting the conservatories alone.
